Ford May Pick Woman Successor To Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's choice of a successor to retired Justice William O. Douglas could tip the ideological balance on the Supreme Court as it faces such crucial issues as the death penalty.

Douglas, 77-years old and partially paralyzed since last Dec. 31 by a stroke, retired Wednesday, telling President Ford what had become increasingly obvious to observers of the nation's highest court.

"I have been unable to shoulder my full share of the burden," he wrote after a decision which court officials said was reached alone in the privacy of his chambers. He said he was retiring effective immediately, bringing an end to history's longest Supreme Court career.

Ford, who as a congressman attempted five years ago to impeach Douglas, saluted him for service "unequaled in all the history of the court."

Douglas had been a Supreme Court justice since April 17, 1939, when he was sworn in following his appointment by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and nearly unanimous confirmation by the Senate.

His court service eclipsed by two years and two weeks the previous record set by Justice Stephen Field, a Californian appointed by President Abraham Lincoln.

His retirement could pave the way for appointment of the first woman justice, and feminist groups with avowed support of First Lady Betty Ford are expected to mount a strong drive for such an appointment.

Women who have been mentioned include Shirley M. Hufstetler of Los Angeles, a judge of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, and three from Ford's home state of Michigan.

The Michigan women who have figured in speculation are former Rep. Martha Griffiths, U.S. District Judge Cornelia Kennedy of Detroit and State Supreme Court Justice Mary Coleman.

Despite growing demand for a woman appointee, Atty. Gen. Edward M. Levi is expected to be a strong contender also. Levi would give the court its first Jewish justice since Abe Fortas resigned in 1969. Before that there had been at least one Jewish member of the court continuously since appointment of Justice Louis D. Brandeis in 1916.

Although he has long been reported to be interested in an appointment to the high court, Levi was discouraging such speculation Wednesday night. Another man who has been mentioned as a possibility is Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., but Senate sources said Griffin has indicated he would recommend naming a woman.

The constitutionality of the death penalty is the central issue in one of eight cases the court was unable to decide last term, apparently due at least in part to Douglas' illness.

Douglas voted with the majority in 1972 when the court struck down the then-existing capital punishment laws because they gave too much discretion to judges and juries. The question now is whether the 34 state laws passed since then suffer from the same defect.

PICCA Food Bank Aimed At Local Hunger Problem

FOOD SUPPLIES LOADED — Bonnie McCutcheon, Norma Eyerma and Violet Carson load food supplies for the PICCA Food Bank collected Tuesday at the Pickaway Township Elementary School.

Numerous businesses, schools and civic organizations have already donated food to the Food Bank, but more is needed to help families through unavoidable circumstances during the winter season.

By BOB BENSONHAVER

A program aimed at alleviating hunger brought on by emergency situations was established by the Pickaway County Community Action in the fall of 1974.

PICCA started the Food Bank, which is housed in the offices located at 165 E. Main St., totally by personal donations.

The Food Bank is the first program of its kind in Pickaway County.

The Food Bank is not a give-away program. However, persons without food and no way to purchase food are able to obtain from the Food Bank for a certain period of time.

Persons using the Food Bank will have to pay back supplies to PICCA at a later date with the amount of payback to be according to income and size of family.

Persons wishing to use the Food Bank must be screened and approved, which only takes a matter of minutes, by the Director Sam Dettra. A personal profile is often taken at this time, with all information to be confidential.

The program must rely completely on donations to keep the cupboard open. PICCA has contacted churches throughout the county, schools, civic organizations and businesses, requesting their help in replenishing the depleted Food Bank.

During 1974 PICCA helped 55 families in Pickaway County obtain food.

Already pledging support in PICCA's endeavor to keep residents of Pickaway County from going hungry due to unavoidable circumstances, are Pickaway County React and Rescue,

Energy Bill Means Hikes Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy legislation that would reduce fuel prices temporarily is awaiting final action in the Senate and House after winning approval of congressional conferees and apparently of the Ford administration.

The bill, if signed by President Ford, would establish a national energy policy and resolve a 10-month-old impasse between the Democratic Congress and the Republican White House.

Congressional economists estimated the legislation would result in an immediate 3.5-cent reduction in the price of a gallon of gasoline or heating oil. Prices would begin rising above today's level in mid-1977, going from the present 60-cent per gallon average for gasoline to about 63.5 cents if other factors remain constant.

Democrats on the Senate House conference committee that wrote the final bill said they have assurances from Ford administration officials that the compromise is acceptable. But none of the 11 Republican conferees signed the measure.

The bill, cleared by the conference committee Wednesday night after 15 days of debate, is likely to gain final congressional approval by the end of the month.

But since current controls on oil prices are due to expire Saturday, Congress probably will rush to the White House a stopgap measure to prevent controls from lapsing until the long-range bill is approved. Or the long-range plan could be made retroactive to Saturday.

In addition to extending oilprice controls through March 15, 1979, the bill includes a variety of energy-conservation plans and creates standby presidential authority for gasoline rationing.

The most controversial conservation sections would require the auto industry to manufacture cars that use less gasoline and would direct the states to enforce measures aimed at cutting energy consumption by 5 per cent by 1980.

But most of the squabbling between Congress and the White House over energy policy centered on the price of oil.

The conferees' bill represents a softening of positions on both sides. Ford had insisted that all price controls be ended immediately. Key Democrats, who had argued for virtually permanent controls, agreed to let them expire within 40 months.

The conference that wrote the final terms of the bill labored for 15 days. But the final item of dispute was not worked out until late Wednesday when the committee agreed to a provision that could lead to greater price incentives for the expensive production of the oil in Alaska.

However, the agreement does not assure special treatment for Alaska. The bill authorizes the president — but only if Congress approves — to allow higher prices for Alaskan oil in 1977, a few months before production there is due to start.

The controls due to expire Saturday have held the price of 60 per cent of U.S. oil production to $5.25 a barrel, while uncontrolled domestic oil sells for $14. This results in a $10.75 average.

Set Hearing On Hearst Case Delay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The judge in the Patricia Hearst case has called a special hearing next Monday to decide whether to delay Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial after a related decision in the case of Sara Jane Moore, accused of attempting to kill President Ford.

One of Miss Hearst's attorneys, Albert Johnson, said Wednesday night that U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter possibly could delay the Dec. 15 trial date until mid-February.

The Hearst defense team has sought such a delay, claiming that the 21-year-old newspaper heiress was too traumatized by her 19 months as a captive of the Symbionese Liberation Army to stand trial immediately.

The chances for delay increased significantly Wednesday when the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, ruling in the case of Miss Moore, held that a judge need not count time used for psychiatric examinations in the 90 days required by the Speedy Trial Act to bring a federal prisoner to trial.

JUNIOR PLAY — This is a scene from the Circleville High School Junior class play which will be presented tonight and Friday at the High School.

CHS Junior Class Production Is Top Entertainment

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

One thing can be said about Circleville High School's young drama teacher, Neal Handler, he can really get the best out of his students. The junior class at CHS will present "Who Killed Aunt Caroline" tonight and Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium and if Wednesday's dress rehearsal is any indication, the audience can expect to be delighted at the expertise of these young performers.

In Handler's three years at CHS, he and his students have presented some of the best high school entertainment to be seen.

A stunning plot in this particular play is coupled with the remarkable talent of several players.

The prim and proper Aunt Caroline, played by Christy Dorff, meets an untimely end in the first act. Even though there are two more acts to follow, Miss Dorff gives her audience nothing short of a professional performance.

Lovely Kelly Wells plays the eldest daughter of the impoverished widow of Aunt Caroline's brother.

The plot revolves around the poor side of the family, shunned in the will because of the brother's unsanctioned marriage. Upon the death of Caroline, the poor relations stand to inherit the family fortune if Caroline leaves no heirs. Being a spinster, that possibility is remote until she announces she intends to adopt her secretary-companion, Miss Mabbitt.

Miss Mabbitt is played by Kathy Fischer who is absolutely marvelous in the background and later as an active participant. Her make-up is so excellently applied that a passer-by may well take her for 60 instead of 16.

The good mother Endicott is played by Pam Pontious. Pam is on stage most of the time but the magnitude of her part does not thwart her talents for she never misses a cue.

Dan DeFrank as the son, with Lynne Weaver and Barb Leist as the younger daughters of Mrs. Endicott, complete the family circle. Barb plays the little girl with just the right lilt.

A young but competent police lieutenant, played by Arthur Whitfield, keeps the action moving as each of the family members confesses to killing Aunt Caroline. The real clue to the mystery is a schocker but then everybody lives happily ever after anyway.

Completing the cast of this year's production is Mark Rustin and Mark Rogols as a pair of suitors who happen to be at the wrong place at the wrong time.

Both McNaughton plays the chemistry teacher whose merits are questioned more than once by the audience sleuth. Thea Rogers makes a couple of cameo appearances which add the final touch to a charming production by a group of very talented students.

Testing Center Slated At Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati has been selected by General Motors for a multimillion dollar testing ground for innovations in public transit.

Roger B. Smith, GM executive vice president, said he expects the contract in which the city will participate financially, will be signed in a matter of days. Smith also predicted a comeback for the auto industry this year with the development of lighter, more economical cars.

"It will be a landmark effort, an unusually comprehensive, systematic attack on the complex problems besetting transportation today," said Smith, adding that GM is anxious to display and test its new public transit equipment.

Smith explained the program will be conducted in three phases: data gathering and analysis, experimentation and possible major construction.

"There is no mode of transportation our people will not be considering," said Smith. "Not every change and innovation we and the city try will be successful. We don't expect that. We know the results will vary, but the purpose of the program is to find out what works best and why."

GM budgeted $1 million for the first phase while Cincinnati agreed to put up $250,000 as its share. Cost of the remainder of the project was not reported.

Cincinnati City Manager William Donaldson had recommended the project to aid the municipally-owned Queen City Metro bus system.

Smith declined to describe specific projects but officials said the program could include such projects as exclusive bus lanes, new traffic control devices, moving devices for sidewalks and park-and-ride lots.

Smith also predicted auto industry sales would exceed 10 million cars and 2.7 million trucks in the model year just begun, a gain of 21 per cent over the 1975 model year.

Smith said GM is also working to produce lighter weight components on its cars over the next five years.

He said every model will be affected in the interest of better gasoline mileage.

Smith said GM has already gone more than half way toward meeting President Ford's 1980 fuel-economy goals.

"To date, we have 38 per cent, the best record of progress in the business," Smith said. "We have 18 per cent to go and I'm going to be frank with you: the last 18 per cent could be a whole lot tougher than the first 38."

Currently, about 20 per cent of GM car sales are classified at 3,500 pounds or below, Smith said. These lighter cars will account for 70 per cent of sales by 1980.

"That's quite a turnaround for a company some people thought was wedded to the big car," Smith said.

Winter Weather Sweeps U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter weather conditions prevailed over much of the center of the country today with snow as far south as St. Louis and freeze warnings posted in Alabama.

Cold air pushed around a large high pressure system to cover the Great Lakes and the Plains. It extended as far south as the Gulf Coast and east to the Appalachians.

Temperatures plunged into the lower 20s and teens in parts of the central Plains early today. Gale warnings were posted along the upper Great Lakes and gusty winds whistle into the mid Mississippi Valley.

West of the Mississippi, it was sunny and warmer, except for rain in western Washington and northwest Oregon.

The only warm area in the east was a fringe along the Atlantic Coast of the Carolinas and in Florida where low to mid 70s still prevailed ahead of the cold front.

There were rain and showers in the north and mid-Atlantic Coast states with showers and thunderstorms in eastern North Carolina, southeast Georgia and Florida.

Weather

Chance of snow flurries tonight, low 20-25. Partly cloudy Friday, high in 30s. Chance of snow, 30 per cent tonight and 20 per cent Friday. Temperatures Wednesday were: high, 60; low, 35.

Students in the Teays Valley High School district, Logan Elm High School district, and grades one through three in the Circleville City Schools have been permitted to conduct a canned food drive within their school.

The Circleville Community United Methodist and St. Jacob's Lutheran Church of Tarlton have donated quite a bit of food for the bank, although all donations, both small and large, individual or groups, food or financial assistance have been greatly appreciated.

Some people may be asking why anyone in Pickaway County should ever be without food, with all the assistance of welfare benefits, food stamps, unemployment benefits, social security and workman's compensation? But, anyone who has had to file for any of these benefits knows that there is usually a waiting period of anywhere from four to six weeks.

Most families do not have the savings to live that long without any pay. These people can possibly let their rent and utilities go past due, but what about a hungry family?

"This," according to Norma Eyerman, "is where PICCA comes in."

New York Aid Bill Gaining More Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican and Democratic leaders are working on a compromise bill to help New York City out of its financial crisis amid speculation that President Ford is looking for a way to soften his opposition to federal aid for the city.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey, indicating he sees signs that the administration may be backing down from its hard-line stand against aiding the city, called the New York legislature into special session today to begin work on a new plan to help avert default, including provisions for new taxes and a debt restructuring.

President Ford himself, in a meeting with magazine publishers Wednesday, acknowledged that New York had taken some encouraging steps toward fiscal soundness.

"They've made a lot of progress in the last 10 days," he said.

Ford's recommendations for revision of bankruptcy laws to ease legal proceedings in the event of a New York default were to be discussed today at a hearing by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In addition to Carey's perception of a softening in administration attitude, both Republicans and Democrats suggested the tide of congressional opinion is turning toward approval of aid for the city.

Some congressional leaders said they definitely see signs that Ford, who said he would veto any measure designed to bail out New York City, is looking for a graceful way of altering his position.

A GOP senator, who did not wish to be named, said, "The President wants to change his mind, but he hasn't found a way to do it."

House Banking Committee Chairman Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona worked on details of their bipartisan aid bill, and some congressmen saw the joint effort as a strong sign of administration change-of-heart.

near and the possibility of more winter job lay-offs, the Food Bank will be in need of even more food in order to meet the needs of these families.

Any group or individual wishing to assist replenishing the Food Bank, contact Bonnie McCutcheon, Norma Eyerman or Violet Carson at the Outreach Department of PICCA by phoning 474-7452 or 474-6881.

Miss SCO Pageant Scheduled

Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will again sponsor the Miss South Central Ohio Pageant, an official preliminary of the Miss Ohio and Miss America Pageants.

The event, set to be held in the Chillicothe High School Auditorium, is scheduled for March 27, 1976.

Dan Prickett of Chillicothe, music director and talent consultant for the Miss Ohio Pageant for 11 years, will serve as the director of the local pageant.

Young women interested in competing in the Pageant should contact Mrs. John Chew, 10 Tecumseh Dr., or Miss Rosemary Irwin, 315 E. Water St., Chillicothe. The deadline for entry is Jan. 15, 1976.

Girls wishing to enter the pageant must be high school graduates by Labor Day of 1976 and must be 17-28 years old by the same date. The contestants must be United States citizens of any race and residents of the six-county area, which includes Ross, Pike, Pickaway, Hocking, Jackson and Vinton Counties.

An entrant must never have been married.

The girls will be judged in talent, evening gown and swimsuit competitions and a personality interview.

The reigning Miss South Central Ohio, Debbie Vulgamore of Jasper, will appear in the 1976 pageant. Miss Vulgamore is now available for personal appearances and promotions and may be contacted through Mrs. Joseph Griesheimer, 434 Stacey Road, Chillicothe, publicity chairman for the pageant.

As with all official preliminaries to the Miss America Pageant, the emphasis in the local pageant will be placed on the awarding of scholarships with the Sigma Chapter awarding scholarships to the winner and runners-up.

COA Discusses Senior Citizen Center, Housing

Pickaway County Council on Aging held its annual luncheon meeting Wednesday at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Vera Saunders informed the council about the proposed application for a community block grant to build a senior citizen center at the Pickaway County fairgrounds and of a proposal to construct FHA financed housing for senior citizens.

Public hearings have been scheduled for the community block grant application for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 24 and 7:30 p.m. Dec. 8 in the common pleas courtroom of the Pickaway County Court House.

The council on aging will conduct a market analysis to determine the need for senior citizen housing.

Priscilla Steele, consultant with the Pickaway County Regional Planning Commission, explained the duties and the scope of the commission. She also explained in detail the federal community development block grant program and subsidized housing.

The family would appreciate memorial contributions to the First Freewill Baptist Church building fund.

Thieves Remove Extinguishers From 3 Buses

Thieves entered three buses in the Williamsport area, one owned by a church and two by the Westfall Local School District, between the hours of 11:15 a.m. Tuesday and noon Wednesday.

The Rev. Leroy Newsome, pastor of the Williamsport Church of Christ in Christian Union, 235 S. Water St., reported to the Sheriff's Department that the thieves entered the church bus, parked on Spruce Street near the Community Building, and removed two fire extinguishers and six flares.

Entry was gained through the passenger loading door. The items were valued at $19.

Two fire extinguishers, valued at $20 each, were removed from buses owned by the Westfall Local School District, while they were parked at the homes of the drivers.

Robert Miller and Oscar Atwood, drivers, reported to Superintendent Gordon Massie that thieves entered through the passengers loading door.

No damage was reported on any of the buses.

Deputy F. R. McCoy investigated the reports.

Farmers Union Meeting Scheduled

There will be a meeting of the Pickaway Farmers Union 7:30 p.m. Monday at Pickaway Twp. School.

Officers for the coming year will be elected. Willard England, president of the county organization, said the discussion for the evening will center around Farmers Union proposed programs seeking 100 per cent of parity for the farmer and assuring consumers of a bountiful supply of food at reasonable prices.

Members attending the meeting are to bring cookies. Coffee will be provided.

Warren Harmon Honored For Work With Aviation

DEDICATION — Norman Crabtree, left, Director of Aviation for the State of Ohio, presents a plaque to Warren O. Harmon in appreciation for his years of service to the aviation industry. The plaque was placed on a stone planter outside the terminal building at the Pickaway County Veteran's Memorial Airport.

Warren O. Harmon, tabbed "Mr. Aviation of Pickaway County" by his friends and associates, was honored Nov. 8 during a dedication ceremony at the Pickaway County Veteran's Memorial Airport.

A bronze plaque which reads, "Dedicated to Warren O. Harmon in appreciation for the years of service he has contributed in the field of aviation," was placed on a stone planter outside the terminal building.

About 50 aviators, family, and friends were present at the ceremony, which was conducted by Norman Crabtree, Director of Aviation for the State of Ohio.

Harmon's dedication to aviation began in 1929 when he was a part-time mechanic for aviators while working at Banner Welding, Huntington, W. Va.

In 1940, he became associated with Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, where he overhauled and maintained aircraft and engines for B-17 and B-25 aircraft. He was flight

Grange Backs Local Land Use Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Grange Wednesday adopted a resolution opposing any legislation that would take land use decisions away from local and state governments.

A Grange spokesman said conditions vary so greatly in different parts of the country that a national land use policy couldn't be properly developed.

Jack Silvers of Master, Wash., chairman of the agriculture committee, said the Grange would support legislation limiting the Army Corps of Engineers' dredge and fill operations to navigable waters as traditionally defined by the Corps. He said current interim regulations appear to be a form of federal land use control.

Delegates voted to support legislation to reorganize the Federal Grain Inspection Service. Silvers said recent scandals involving inspectors and grain exporting firms have demonstrated weaknesses in the Grain Standards Act.

The winner of the community service contest conducted by the national Grange was the Glade Valley Grange of Walkersville, Md. Other winners were Ringoes, N. J., second; Plains, Mont., third, and Sterling, Mass., fourth.

Honorable mentions went to Indian Mound Grange, Palm Bay, Fla.; Riverside Grange, Buffalo Gap, S. D.; Fredonia Grange, Marshall, Mich.; Two Rivers Grange, Fairbanks, Alaska; and East Barnard Grange, East Barnard, Va.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) We are moving into a new condominium and hope to get the five per cent new housing credit. What is the deadline?

(A) The five per cent tax credit for new home buyers applies to purchases made under a binding contract on or before December 31, 1975. To be eligible for the credit on your 1975 tax return you must acquire the title and occupy the new residence before January 1, 1976.

If you sign the contract before December 31, but don't occupy the residence until 1976, you must take the credit on your 1976 return, filed in 1977.

To determine whether your new home qualifies for the housing credit, see IRS Publication 591, Tax Credit for the New Home Buyer.

(Q) I donate much of my time doing volunteer work for a charitable organization. I also spend my own money on travel and other expenses connected with the volunteer work. What expenses are deductible?

(A) The value of the time or service you give to the charitable organization is not deductible. However, any out-of-pocket expenses you pay while performing the services are deductible as a charitable contribution. This includes transportation between your home and the place where you serve, and reasonable payments for meals and lodging when the services you give to a qualified organization take you away from home overnight.

If you use your car, you may deduct the unreimbursed operating expenses such as for gas and oil, or take the standard mileage rate of seven cents per mile, plus parking fees and tolls. You may not deduct maintenance and repair.

You may deduct contributions to qualified charitable organizations only if you itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040. An organization itself, or the IRS can tell you whether the group qualifies as charitable.

(Q) One of our children is blind. We must send him to a special school to learn braille, and buy braille textbooks for him. May we take any deductions for the tuition and book costs?

(A) Yes, payments for sending a physically handicapped child to a special school, which has the primary function of helping to alleviate the handicap, are deductible as medical expenses.

You may also deduct the cost of the braille edition books, but only to the extent that they exceed the costs of regular editions.

Armco Plans No Expansion In Ohio

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Two Armco Steel Corp. officials said the firm plans no further expansion in Ohio because of high industrial taxes. Three new plants were built in Pennsylvania, Alabama and Illinois partially for this reason.

C. Wesley Rowles Jr., senior vice president of finance and Frederick Van Scoyoc, director of taxes, charged Ohio is "by far the most expensive tax burden state" in the 48 states in which Armco has facilities. They called for a reduction in these taxes to make the state more competitive in attracting industry.

"Ohio has just about all forms of taxes—real estate, personal property, income-franchise and sales tax. Other states use these forms of taxation, but not all at the same time," said Rowles.

Van Scoyoc said that Armco, third largest steel company in terms of sales and assets, has only 30 per cent of its assets in Ohio. At the same time, 54 per cent of Armco's property tax burden is in Ohio.

He said the firm will proceed with its planned $100 million coke plant in Middletown because the commitment has already been made.

However, future expansion in Ohio will depend on whether the industrial tax situation changes, the executives said.

Control Board Saves Trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Historical buffs, worried that the state might permit trees to be cut down on the famous site that inspired Ohio's Great Seal, now can relax.

The state Controlling Board relented Monday and authorized the $52,500 purchase of 84.6 acres which had come under threat of the axe.

It was the second time around for the request by the Department of Natural Resources which asked that the purchase be authorized as an addition to the Great Seal State Park.

The Controlling Board said at first that the price was excessive, despite the historic value of the land which abuts the famed Mount Logan site near Chillicothe.

Owners of the land, Dale V. and Edmona M. Hartley, had said they planned to cut down all the trees to sell them for lumber. At that point several months ago, the natural resources department became concerned.

Department officials went to Ross County Common Pleas Court and obtained a temporary order prohibiting the Hartleys from selling the land until a solution could be worked out.

Subsequently, a proposed settlement called for the state to pay the couple $52,500—a figure that represented an 8 per cent increase from the actual appraised value. The Hartleys apparently thought the settlement was fair.

However, when the department came before the board last month, no member made a motion for approval. Earlier this week, it was another story. The request was called up for a vote and approved handily, clearing the way for the land to be added to the present 1,235-acre, two-year-old state park.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a member of the board, had an explanation as to why the issue was resolved with such dispatch.

Coming as it did after a lengthy meeting at which the agency considered several long pages of detailed spending requests, Meshel said the proposal was approved quickly "because they put it at the end of the agenda."

Richard E. Midden, deputy natural resources director, was among those relieved by the vote. "That (land) is something we cannot replace," he said.

The vote came only five days before a Nov. 15 deadline for the state to option its authority to purchase.

A Page Of Opinion

Uncle Sam To The Rescue

All indications now point to some type of federal action to help New York City in its financial crisis. Fine, as long as no direct federal funding is required.

There is no question that stringent financial curbs are necessary by the city before there can be reasonable chance of pulling out of a tailspin.

Such a program is being hammered out now, and stands a brighter chance of support than previously. While many of the metropolis' problems have come from changing population patterns and inflation, it is still an undisputable fact that much of the problem has come from incredibly poor management and sloppy financial actions.

Most individuals who have a home, own a car, etc. know that when you start to borrow money to pay continuing bills you soon wind up paying back the loan and still have those same bills coming in. In this manner you soon come to a dead end.

This is the situation that

To Kill A Mouse

By PHYLLIS BATELLE

NEW YORK — When the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) went down to resounding defeat in New York and New Jersey, I couldn't help feeling relieved.

The amendment was deceptively simple, and has been debated on too high a level of emotionalism. Whether one was for or against the ERA, one was tarred with a sticky political brush.

In favor? Then you were a follower of militant feminist thinking. Against? Then you must be a right-wing conservative at best, or even a John Birch.

There was plenty of angry rhetoric being hawked on street corners and telephones during the last weeks before the election — but there was no reasonable, temperate gathering together of women with judges and lawyers and sociologists to study the implications and ramifications that might ensue from those 26 little words:

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the state of New York or any subdivision thereof on account of sex." (The New Jersey ERA amendment was even simpler: "Equality of rights under law shall not be denied or abridged on account of sex.")

What did the words really mean?

The proponents, who included many highly revered individuals including Mrs. Gerald Ford, said that all they mean is that each person will be treated equally, under law. Any inference that ERA might seriously endanger family life in America, they assured, is "scare talk."

The opponents said they weren't spreading scare talk, but were trying to bring reason to the controversy. If legal equality, as represented by ERA, becomes a reality, they warned, homemakers will be robbed of hundreds of state laws which make men responsible for wives and children. If men are divested of those legal responsibilities, they asked, how many women will dare stay home and take care of children — knowing their father can move out and leave them without resources.

The supporters said that theory was wrong: ERA would not outlaw alimony but, rather, give either spouse the right to receive alimony, depending on the circumstances.

This left it clearly up to the courts to decide. Only time would tell the eventual outcome of the ERA amendment — whether it helped women, or hurt them. And I think time is needed to analyze the complexities of the amendment before it becomes irrevocably written into the Constitution.

Before she died, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt warned against a too-swift progress of women toward total equality. If accomplished too quickly, she said, women's equality in politics, finance and extra-family ventures "will lead to widespread unhappiness."

In a later interview, Ruth Dayan — the irrepressible ex-wife of Israel's Moyshe Dayan — told me that the women in her country have "total equality, not only equal pay for equal jobs. And if you ask me," she said, "it is not always too good to be so liberated. I know women in my own family whose health has been destroyed from getting out and doing man's work."

Mrs. Dyan's animated face relaxed into wistfulness. "I remember when my husband and I lived on the farm, I loved to cook and some days I just wanted to stay in the kitchen. But Moshe would say, 'I'm sorry, today we must work in the fields.' And so we did

New York City has found itself in, with debt service chewing a big chunk out of income.

Close scrutiny of all spending, and belt-tightening will overcome the problem, given enough time.

But perhaps, most interesting, is the fact that many U.S. Senators and Representatives who are demanding such a course for New York City do not hesitate to take the same idiotic spending course for the nation as a whole.

... I don't think you need our kind of equality here in America. You have a good life. You can cook if you want to, and play with your children all day. Your liberation movement is all a gimmick."

It is not a gimmick, of course. But with woman-protective laws already in the books — we already have the Civil Rights, Equal Employment, Equal Pay and Age Discrimination Acts — perhaps we should not ask for the ultimate leveler without further thought and research. With ERA in the legal books, it's possible that we'd be stepping in the path of what Senator Sam Ervin called "an atom bomb to kill a mouse."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When you speak of redlining, a consumer activist probably thinks of greenlining and a home mortgage lender sees — well, he sees red.

Redlining, as you probably have heard, occurs when a lender marks off a certain geographical territory, most likely in the blight area, and declines to lend any money there.

This often provokes the greenlining reaction, in which depositors remove their savings, their greenbacks, from the offending institution and place them with one they conclude is more cooperative.

To those attending the annual meeting of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose membership includes institutions that make the majority of home loans, the issue is simple but complex.

In a narrow business sense, lenders say, investments in certain areas cannot be justified. "We say we have to protect the funds of our savers," said Robert Hazen, of Portland, Ore., who assumed the league presidency at the convention. "We just cannot take the risk," he said.

Few people here deny that they avoid doing business in the inner city. They argue that they aren't the only ones, either, that a variety of business and even governmental enterprises do the same thing.

The "redlining" term irritates them. The practice it describes, they repeat, is merely the exercise of sound business decisions. Chartered as business institutions, they say they cannot be asked to solve sociological problems.

Congress seems not willing to agree. A bill calling for disclosure of big city areas in which loans are offered or denied is likely to pass both houses. It could be an irritant, but more likely, say lenders here, it won't prove a thing.

"Those figures will be expensive to come up with," said Barry Tate, director of urban affairs for the league, "and the interpretation of what the numbers mean will be difficult to determine."

Some lenders already proclaim that they aren't the only reason so little financial business is conducted in the blighted, inner city core. They insist the record will show loans weren't made there because nobody asked for them.

While they don't try to conceal their belief that the very innermost residential areas are beyond their ability to save, the lenders now have a program they feel could save what they call the "middle ring."

This is an area of "mature communities" lying between the innermost circle and a ring of stable neighborhoods. It is an area in transition. It can go either way, but lenders say that at least they will have a chance to succeed.

Under a proposal already introduced by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., some of these middle rings would be designated Community Reinvestment Areas, in which private lenders and the federal government would share the risk.

Rumsfeld Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald H. Rumsfeld, nominated by President Ford to be secretary of defense, assured Congress today he is "totally dedicated to a strong defense posture for the United States."

He told the Senate Armed Services Committee that he will devote his total energy as secretary to maintaining military strength.

Rumsfeld testified at a confirmation hearing on his nomination to succeed James R. Schlesinger in the top civilian defense position.

He said the policy of pursuing detente with the Soviet Union is "useful" and that he supports attempts to find areas where U.S. and Soviet interests may converge.

However, he said that in cases where the two countries' interests may not coincide, "there is no reason to agree to something that is not in our interest."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Nov. 13, the 317th day of 1975. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregation of the races on public buses was unconstitutional.

On this date:

In 1794, President George Washington sent an army into Pennsylvania to suppress an uprising by frontiersmen, known as the Whisky Rebellion.

In 1834, California adopted a state constitution.

In 1918, the Republic of Austria was proclaimed.

In 1941, in World War II, the British aircraft carrier, Ark Royal, was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean, and only 18 of the crew survived.

In 1942, the Pacific War naval Battle of Guadalcanal began. It turned into a defeat for Japan.

In 1961, the Congo government asked the United Nations to help restore law and order in rebellious Katanga Province.

Ten years ago: The cruise ship, Yarmouth Castle, sank after catching fire 110 miles east of Miami, and at least 89 lives were lost.

Five years ago: West Germany and Poland agreed on a treaty fixing the Oder-Neisse line as a border.

One year ago: The head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Yasser Arafat, told the U.N. General Assembly that his organization's goal was a Palestinian state that would include Moslems, Christians and Jews.

Today's birthdays: Actress Jean Seberg is 37 years old. Actor Alexander Scourby is 62.

Thought for today: A nail is driven out by another nail; habit is overcome by habit. — Erasmus, Dutch scholar, about 1466-1536.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, early in the Revolution, American troops under General Richard Montgomery occupied Montreal in their invasion of Canada.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I teach Health Science in high school. There is always great interest in mononucleosis on the part of the students. The question came up as to the relationship between tonsils and this disease. Is there any?

Miss D. W., Mass.

Dear Miss W.:

Many cases of infectious mononucleosis begin with a sore throat and tender glands in the neck. Almost always the tonsils, if present, are red and angry. Consequently, it is often difficult to distinguish between an acute attack of tonsillitis and mononucleosis.

Later, other symptoms may point to "mono" and then the diagnosis is substantiated by a study of the blood. A positive "heterophil" test establishes the diagnosis.

Tonsillitis is usually caused by a virus. It is not usually considered a serious disease, and sometimes its benign character is taken too casually. This should not be done because, in some instances, severe weakness and other complications do occur.

It is certainly a "nuisance disease" because of the length of time it takes to recover one's vitality. Nevertheless, it is a disease that must be respected.

It may be of interest to you and your students to know that a group of doctors at Stanford University have come to the conclusion that people with tonsils may be more susceptible to mononucleosis than those who have undergone tonsillectomy.

They studied a rather large number of cases in college students and concluded that "prior tonsillectomy may reduce the possibility of contracting mononucleosis."

Do children always have the same blood type as one of their parents?

Mr. H. H. V., Minn.

Dear Mr. V.:

Children almost always inherit the blood type of one of their parents. However, some children can inherit another blood type, one that may have been carried by a parent through the genetic background.

The major blood groups are A, AB, B and O. When both parents are group O, the children are group O and never any of the other groups.

When parents are group O and A, the children are O and A, and never B or AB.

Similar combinations, 10 in all, can produce certain blood groups and eliminate others. There are also sub-groupings of blood, known as M and N. These, too, have interesting hereditary patterns. In fact, the sub-groups are sometimes used to prove or disprove paternity.

Secret Sets Retirement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Robert T. Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, a former Congressman first elected to the Ohio legislature in 1931, said today he would retire when his current term expires next year.

"Time has caught up with men and the decision not to run has been the saddest and most difficult decision I have ever had to make," said Secrest, who is 71. "The spirit is more than willing but common sense tells me that the body will not last forever."

Secrest already has a long career in public life behind him when he was elected to the state Senate in 1968.

A one-time history teacher, he served in Congress from 1932 to 1942, left to join the Navy during World War II and returned in 1948. He was in the Congress for 20 years serving under five presidents.

Secrest was a member of the Federal Trade Commission for seven years and was Ohio director of commerce in 1962 under former Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Archie Bunker Aids Migrant Workers

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Archie Bunker is teaching 18-year-old Mario Rodriguez to be a dental technician. The feisty television fixture also helps 22-year-old Hugo Chavez learn the fundamentals of auto mechanics and carpentry.

For Rodriguez and Chavez, as well as 20 other students, Archie Bunker is a way out of the migrant worker stream.

At the Adult Migrant Education center replays of "All in the Family" television episodes aid the students to break from the migrant worker cycle.

Nancy Rocha, 18, says in Spanish she enrolled in the program to "begin to do something with my life."

A native of Renosa, Mexico, Miss Rocha spent her life as a migrant until she came to work at a tomato canning factory near here. Rodriguez and Chavez are her brothers.

If she completes the education, she said: "I'll be able to get work that is more beneficial to me, something that I will make money at."

Before episodes of the Bunker family and other programs are shown, center Director Jerry Ritzel says, the staff watches the show several times to draw a lesson plan based around the show.

The program—without sound—is played in two-minute segments. Students take turns constructing and interpreting what they are watching.

"It surely brings out a lot of idiomatic expressions—wrong ones at that, but ones people use," Ritzel said. "It serves as one exposure to our culture, how we enjoy our entertainment, you might say."

Chavez and Rodriguez also attend weekly "skill exposure" classes at the Upper Valley Joint Vocational School in Piqua where they are learning new occupations.

"We prepare a general introduction to a theme—carpentry is an example," Ritzel said. "...what a man could expect to learn, what hours he might be required to work, and so forth."

Later, after practical application of the skills at JVS, "the students come back and try to evaluate what has been learned," Ritzel said.

There is an open enrollment policy at the migrant education center, the director said. One couple is 60 years old. Several students are middle-aged, but the majority are in their late teens and early 20s.

Each student is tested to determine how long they will need the training, but 53 weeks is the limit set by the government, Ritzel said.

"The student determines his own curriculum, whatever he feels he needs," the director said. "...that's what the staff is for."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

The Pickaway County Board of Elections has estimated that more than 66 per cent of eligible voters participated in the local election on November 4. For this splendid turnout an A+ must be recorded in the grade book for Circleville. I feel certain that each person casting his ballot for the three highly contested seats on the Board of Education did so with the positive conviction that his selection was in the best interest of public education.

Another A+ is in order for the Circleville Herald for your impartial publication of views both deeply felt and candidly expressed. I am grateful that you provided the opportunity for each of us to address the issues.

Congratulations to the citizens of Circleville for your genuine interest in quality education. Thank you Circleville Herald for granting the privilege of public forum.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Get crafty at your Public Library! The Sneek-A-Peek room has a great many craft books for children. Beginners welcome!

"Fun With Needlepoint" by Hope Hanley is just the book you might want for those winter days ahead. It gives a detailed explanation of how to select colors, preparing the canvas and applying design. Patterns are given that are short and fun to work.

For the youth who likes to work with paper crafts, "Adventures in Paper Modelling" by G. C. Payne has all the essential ingredients. Besides instructing how and where to begin, making models on moulds, from card or wire, on balloons, and whole head masks are explained in detail.

If your child has been wanting to work with balsa wood and you thought you'd never find a book to explain the

Foot-Rubber Given Right To Continue

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— Elza Abraham has been given the legal nod to go back to doing what he likes best—rubbing peoples' feet.

The 78-year-old former postman was acquitted Tuesday of unlawfully practicing medicine without a license and immediately went back to his pasttime for the last 18 years of rubbing his neighbors' tortured feet.

An investigator from the State Medical Board had testified that Abraham charged him a donation of $3 for massaging his feet.

Abraham explained that most of the money he got went to local charities. Municipal Court Judge J.T. Lamb, in acquitting Abraham, explained that the longtime scoutmaster should ask grateful customers to make their donations directly to charity.

The trial aroused the ire of many of those who claimed Abraham's fingers had worked wonders for them. After the judge announced his decision, one woman proclaimed: 'God blessed you, Elza.'

Employe Rise By State Noted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— During the past nine months, there has been an increase of 554 employes assigned to state facilities for the mentally retarded, Dr. Timothy B. Moritz, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said.

There are now fewer employes in state hospitals for the mentally ill, 8,065, than there has been since October 1965, he said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Habits Run In The Family

DEAR ABBY: The woman who is responsible for making my exhusband a pervert now may be causing the same kind of behavior in my sons.

We were divorced after two years of counseling that didn't do a bit of good. When I was gathering my ex-husband's things to pack him up and get him out of the house, I came across evidence that he is a sadist, masochist, exhibitionist, voyeur and transvestite!

He has visitation rights to take our sons for weekends subject to my approval, and when he does, he takes them to see his mother, who has caused all of these abnormalities in her son. Now I fear that she will make pervers out of her grandsons!

Please, Abby, help me to stop all this. My psychiatrist tells me to talk to my lawyer. My lawyer tells me to talk to my psychiatrist. I am sick of talking to both these men. Everytime we talk, I get a bill.

What is your advice? At least it's free.

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: My advice may be free, but I am neither a doctor nor a lawyer, and you appear to need the services of both. I advise you to listen carefully to both these professionals, follow THEIR advice and get your money's worth.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who plans to pursue law as a career. I am a straight A—student, and I'm neither pretty nor popular. I am somewhat anti-social and I'm not domestically inclined, so marriage and a family for me are out of the question.

I really don't care about having a husband and a herd of kids, and there is no way I will spend my life being a housewife. I'd crack up.

My problem is my father. Every time I discuss my future plans with him, he says I am acting like a "lesbian."

I am not a lesbian, and it hurts me to hear him say it. How can I get my father to realize that I am not a lesbian just because I don't want a husband and 20 kids?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Unless your father is a very ignorant man, he surely realizes that every woman who rejects the role of wife and mother to pursue a career is not necessarily a lesbian.

But why make such positive statement now? It's possible for a woman to have both a career and a husband and children.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for two years and are beginning to think about having a family. My problem is that I am not sure I would make a good parent.

I become impatient with children who throw tantrums when they don't get their own way, and I have to fight the urge to discipline them when their parents stand by and do nothing.

I know I'd be a very strict parent. Would that be good or bad for a child? You can't take a child back once it's here, so before having one I want to be sure I would make a good mother.

What do you think?

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: "Discipline" is a must. But a child needs love, too. If you have a lot of love to give, I'd say you have the two most important qualifications for parenthood.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stampd, self-addressed envelope please.

Harsha Supports Intact Road Fund

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — U.S. Rep. William H. Harsha, R-3Ohio, says the highway trust fund should be retained intact, but congressional supporters will have a tough battle in the face of pressure from urban areas.

"It will be nip and tuck," said Harsha, here to address the Highway Department's Hall of Honor dinner. "It's going to be very close."

Currently all revenue generated by the four-cent federal gasoline tax goes into the fund to support the nation's highway system.

Under a proposal by the Ford administration, Harsha said one cent would go for a trust fund to support the interstate highway system, but three cents would go into the general treasury. In addition, there is a provision that if a state levies the one-cent tax on gasoline the federal government will not collect it.

He said increased pressure from urban areas was threatening the continuation of the fund.

"You have a great bulk of people in the urban areas who are anti-highway," Harsha said.

The ranking Republican on the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation, Harsha said, "For a state like North Dakota highways are the life blood of their economy."

He said if the administration proposal were approved, highway construction and maintenance would have to compete with all other areas of government spending. He said this would probably mean less money for the nation's highway system which would hurt states which depend heavily on highways for their economic health.

"In the first place education, providing adequate housing and national defense are much more popular political approaches than building highways," Harsha said.

In addition, he said there is "much pressure from urban areas which are insisting on mass transit systems."

He said the formula for distribution of the highway trust fund is based on population, area and road miles.

Brown County, Ohio, was named for Gen. Jacob Brown who led the American forces at the battle of Lundy's Lane in the War of 1812.

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY DALE ROBBINS

York-Robbins Wedding Vows Read In Tarlton UM Church

The wedding of Miss Sheryl Jo York and Mr. Jeffrey Dale Robbins took place 7:30 p.m., Oct. 25, in the United Methodist Church of Tarlton.

The Rev. Raymond Welsh officiated the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. York, Route 4, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robbins, 125 Town St.

The altar table was flanked with seven branch candleabra decorated with white satin bows and greenery. Two arrangements of flowers and candles were placed on the altar rail, and a fall floral arrangement graced the piano. White satin bows marked the pews completing the decorations.

A program of nuptial selections was presented by Miss Debra Wiseman, pianist and Mr. Roger Allen, vocalist. Selections included "Color My World," "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Lord's Prayer" and during the ceremony "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, was attired in a white American silk quiana gown with high bodice from which flowed a cathedral train. Bon-Ton chantilly lace trimmed the fitted sleeves, hemline, bodice and neckline forming a stand-up collar. The bride's cathedral length veil of illusion was caught to a fitted headpiece and was edged with lace matching that of her gown and dotted with lace appliques. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

Mrs. Michael Hildenbrand was matron of honor in a white crepe gown embroidered with pink flowers. She carried two long stemmed red rosebuds tied with white ribbon. Maid of honor, Miss Beth Clifton, was gowned as the matron of honor with a light blue background. She carried a single long stemmed red rosebud with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joy Robbins, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Lisa Leahy. They were gowned as the honor attendants in yellow and pink respectively, and carried matching rosebuds. The attendants wore cross necklaces, gifts from the bride.

Miss Trina Thomas was flower girl. She wore a dress of beige matching those of the attendants and carried a small white basket of assorted flowers. Her locket was a gift from the bride.

The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Randy Young. Ushers were Mr. Gary Robbins, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Doug York, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Walker.

Mrs. York selected for her daughter's wedding a lime green bijou crepe full length gown with a green flowered jacket and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Robbins was attired in a formal length dress of blue flowered crepe and navy blue accessories with a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and was topped with three wedding bells surrounded with a heart shaped arch. The table where the bride and groom, and their parents were seated held a large white candle centered with a wedding announcement and enhanced with greenery.

Hostesses were Miss Jerrilee Conrad, Miss Cindy Dowden, Miss Kelly Wellman and Miss Deena Burnett.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is employed as a secretary at Dynamic Sales Inc. of Circleville.

The bridegroom, a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School, is employed as a mechanic at Contractors and Industrial Supply of Circleville.

The couple now resides at 1965 Chickasaw Drive, Circleville.

Ohioana Library Association Invites Senior Citizens To Enter Literary Competition

The Ohio Commission on Aging has announced that Senior Citizens are eligible for the first time to enter the Lucille Loy Kuck Ohioana Award for Excellence in Literary Expression.

Awards will be: first, $250, second, $150 and third, $50. Certificates of merit will be given as appropriate. Winners of awards will be notified and invited to attend a spring meeting of the Ohioana Library at the Governor's Mansion, 2 p.m., April 23, at which time the presentation of awards will be made.

In this bicentennial year Martin A. Janis, executive director, believes that many of the older Ohioans will be able to use their personal reminiscences to enter either a poem or essay on the theme "I Remember, I Remember." He urges entrants to use their originality, creativity and literary ability. Entries must be limited to 500 words.

The top ten selected entries will be published and given to the attendees at the 1976 Governor's Conference on Aging to be held May 25 and 26 at the Lausche Building, Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. If there are any additional questions or comments, please contact the special events coordinator, Bettie Bjorn, at 614-666-6411.

The Lucile Lou Kuck Ohioana Award is sponsored by the Martha Kinney Cooper Ohioana Library Association with the assistance of a gift from the E. R. Kuck Foundation to promote unrecognized creative talent among Ohio residents.

Marie Gibson Entertains Deercreek Garden Club

For the Thursday meeting of Deercreek Garden Club, Marie Gibson, president, invited members and guests to her home for a luncheon preceding the business session and program. Guests welcomed were Dorothy Leming and Gertrude Schleich.

"A Time For All Things" was the theme used by Marjorie Smith for the meditation when emphasis was given that in every month and season one has many reasons for which to be thankful.

In recalling Family Thanksgiving Traditions many uses of products from the garden were prominent. For "From The Garden" examples Elsie Wright displayed a crescent designed arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums in a matching vase and Della Leming showed a basket of vegetables with a huge turnip as the focal point.

A communication was read from Ilo Stevenson expressing appreciation for remembrances during her illness and recuperation.

Announcement was made of the November Region 9 meeting of Ohio Association of Garden Clubs at Reynoldsburg when Beatrice Bumgarner will attend as state secretary, and the December 3, "Christmas Heritage" meeting of Council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs at the Historical Society building in Circleville. Vandalia Corcoran and Mrs. Leming volunteered to provide the club's share of cooperative refreshments.

The program portion of the Thanksgiving session was begun by Mrs. Bumgarner giving a reading citing many examples to show that each display of kindness produces more kindness and that a blessing once shared never stops. Others present gave explanations of the best use and meaning of Thanksgiving.

'Bicentennial Woman' Program For Homemakers

The Extension Homemakers Council met recently at Calvary United Methodist Church. Members completed plans for the Homemakers' Christmas Meeting to be held December 1, at the American Legion Hall in Circleville. Ann Morehart, Christmas Meeting chairman, reported on plans completed. Corn husk wreaths will be made to decorate tables and will be given as door prizes. Each club will have a bazaar table; theme for the evening is "A Colonial Christmas Of Calico And Candlelight."

Mrs. Emily Berry reported on the Area Home Council held recently in Washington C. H. Members examined new program ideas for next year and viewed a display of some new products for the home. Several new products were given as Home Council door prizes. Refreshments were served by members of the Krafty Ladies Club, Barbara Welsh and Carol Smith. Mrs. Dottie Roberts of the Duval Do-Alls provided babysitting services.

Following Home Council, the members received a lesson titled "Bicentennial Woman" from Beverly Bechtel, Home Economics Extension Agent. The lesson examined the role and image of women through the two centuries of this country, women's movements, and the problems facing women today. A well illustrated, narrated filmstrip titled "200 Years Of Fashion" was also shown, illustrating how women's roles and the nation's problems affect fashion.

Those attending were: Donna S. Harris, Carolyn S. Jarrell, Ann Morehart, Mae Ross, Madge Baum, Barbara Welsh, Magdalene Fee, Bessie Radcliff, Evelyn Hoover, Dolores Dawson, Ann Grubisha, Vera Downs, Ethel L. McFarland, Carolyn Young, Majorie Patton, Carol Smith, Helen Barr, Marjorie Rinehart, Grace Stout, Helen Kittle, Mary Clark and Emily Berry.

HIGHER EDUCATION — Mrs. S. J. Glueck, second from the left, talked of college education today and in the future to Monday Club. With her from the left are Mrs. Rex Wood, Mrs. William A. Myers and Mrs. J. Austin Dowden.

Mrs. S. J. Glueck Is Speaker On Higher Education At Monday Club's Meeting

Monday Club met Nov. 10 in the meeting room of Pickaway County Historical Society with Mrs. Rex Wood, president, presiding. Mrs. David Gillespie was welcomed as a new member.

Reporter for the evening, Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, in keeping with the year's program "Uncharted Trek" read from two articles pertaining to trends in education as the 21st century moves closer.

Mrs. William Myers introduced Mrs. S. J. Glueck, guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. Glueck, a graduate of the University of Denver, is at present continuing her education at the University of Dayton while she is serving a nine year term on the board of directors of Central State University at Wilberforce. She has been both teacher and administrator and is a representative on the Inter-University Council, serving on the medical school committee.

Mrs. Glueck's talk focused on higher education, as she told of the development of Central State University, especially since 1947 when it became a state supported institution. CSU is composed of three colleges, offering 20 major courses. The University is 90 per cent black. As a result of integration of high schools, the students entering other colleges, and those who graduate are equal in preparation to graduate from any other university. Enrollment at present is a few more than 2,500 and it has the lowest fees of any university in the state. The goal of the administration is to build a school of such excellence that whites will want to attend.

Air Masks Given Volunteer Units

LIFE SAVING GIFT — Air masks were presented by Stoutsville Fertilizer Service and Pickaway Crop Service to local volunteer fire and emergency squad units. In the upper photo are, from the left, Charles Beckwith, Dow Chemical USA sales representative; Juke Anderson, Smith-Douglass Ohio Branch manager; Charles Milies, Smith-Douglass, Ohio Branch Sales;

Crew members of the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department, Jackson Twp. Emergency Squad, and the Clearcreek Twp. Volunteer Fire Department have received air masks as a result of a joint community relations-marketing program sponsored by Dow Chemical and Smith Douglass Fertilizer.

Clearcreek Twp. Department received its mask from Stoutsville Fertilizer Service while Jackson Emergency squad and Williamsport VFD received its mask from Pickaway Crop Service.

The air mask provides about thirty minutes worth of air from a self-contained back pack weighing about 25 pounds. The apparatus, which is kept aboard an emergency truck, allows the wearer to breathe and work in toxic gases, fumes or dense smoke without risking lung damage.

Compressed air is delivered through a "demand" valve, which only allows air to pass when the wearer inhales, thus conserving the supply. A warning bell sounds when about 95 per cent of the air in the tank has been used.

Pickaway Crop Service and Stoutsville Fertilizer Service are distribution centers for Smith-Douglass, one of the nation's leading producers and suppliers of agricultural chemicals to farmers in the eastern half of the United States.

The gifts are the result of a cooperative marketing program with Dow Chemical U.S.A., Midland, Mich. The special program provides for donations to community service organizations by distributors of Dow's agricultural products. The awards are based on sales performance.

The equipment was presented at a special dinner held for the occasion in Bellefontaine.

Machete-Wielding Man Frees Woman, Yields To Police

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — A machete-wielding man, wanted for questioning in the stabbing death of one woman, released another woman and surrendered to police early today after holding her hostage for nearly 15 hours.

The hostage suffered severe bruises, cuts and a possible fractured rib, police said.

Police said Jasper Mines, 32, released Janie Nelson, a secretary, and gave up after being convinced he would not be shot down when he left the real estate office where she had been held captive.

Mines was arrested on an open charge related to the death of the first woman. Charges were being considered in the hostage case and in an attack on two other persons.

Mrs. Nelson, 32 and the mother of three young children, was rushed to Lake Wales General Hospital after her release.

Polk County Sheriff Monroe Brannen had said she appeared to be "in good shape" when she was first released. However, a spokesman for Brannen later reported that Mrs. Nelson was suffering from severe bruises from her shoulder down to her lower back area.

"She was beaten with the flat of the blade of the machete on several occasions during the first couple of hours of the incident," the spokesman said. "She also has slight cuts on both wrists and on her neck and possibly a broken or fractured rib."

He described the cuts as minor scratches and said they were inflicted by the machete being drawn against her arm or neck.

"If he felt like we were moving around too much, he would inflict one of these cuts," he said.

Mines, a fruitpicker from Wabasso, Fla., had stormed into the office before noon Wednesday.

Dozens of policemen and others surrounded the office and spent the rest of the day and into the night trying to calm him down and talk him out. But Mines, who Brannen said frequently referred to himself as "the devine terrorist," repeatedly refused to surrender.

Police said that before going to the office, Mines had attacked two passersby when he abandoned his van and stole a car. One of those attacked was reported in critical condition.

An off-duty deputy in Indian River County found the body of Marie L. Hartnoll, 20, of Satellite Beach, bound hand and foot in the van left by Mines. Officials said she had been stabbed to death.

Dan Taylor, a spokesman for Brannen, said Mines released Mrs. Nelson and gave up at about 1:30 a.m. only after finally being convinced he would not be immediately killed.

"He had decided to give up about an hour earlier but was still afraid we would shoot him," said Taylor. "We finally convinced him that we wouldn't."

"He just said, 'I'm ready to do it,' and went to the door and removed the desk he had blocking it and came out."

Brannen said Mrs. Nelson did as much as anyone in talking Mines into giving up. "She was a very brave woman," Brannen said. "She talked to him the whole time and kept him calmed down."

MONROE PTO

The November meeting of the Monroe Parent Teacher Organization was held in the school gymnasium with Mrs. Conrad calling the meeting to order with the Pledge to the Flag. The fifth grades sang the Lord's Prayer.

Secretary and treasurer reports were presented. Mrs. Davis' room won the room count. The Ways and Means Committee presented several projects for approval and the Parent Teacher Organization voted to fix playground swings, buy a trampoline, repair the girls rest room and try to find a solution to repair the chairs in the gym.

It was announced there will be no meeting in December due to the annual Christmas program by the students.

A family type talent show will be held in January. Seasonal skits and musical numbers were presented by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

High Court Halts Closed Hearings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In an apparently unprecedented decision, the Ohio Supreme Court has halted a trial judge from closing his courtroom to the public in a criminal case.

The high court Wednesday temporarily restrained Montgomery County Common Pleas Judge Stanley S. Phillips from barring the public from pretrial hearings in the Lester C. Eloff murder-kidnap trial in Dayton.

The action, on a news media appeal of the judge's order, means Phillips now may either open the hearings or postpone them until the Supreme Court makes a final ruling on the merits of the case.

The judge, who Monday began closed hearings on motions to suppress statements and evidence in the case, indicated he would make a decision today on what course of action to follow.

The Reporter's Committee for Freedom of the Press in Washington, D.C., said this was the first state Supreme Court ruling of its kind to open up pretrial hearings to the public.

The issue involves the trial of Herman Lee Moore, 46, one of three Dayton men charged with aggravated murder, kidnapping and extortion in the September abduction and slaying of Eloff, owner of three Dayton furniture stores.

Phillips agreed to a request by Moore's defense attorneys that pretrial hearings be closed to protect the defendant's right to a fair trial.

Attorneys for defendant Albert Lee Scott Jr., 41, also have asked that his pretrial hearings be closed and the third defendant, Willis Leroy, 44, is expected to do the same.

Dayton Newspapers, Inc., publisher of the Dayton Daily News and The Journal Herald, appealed the order, arguing that the public is a party to a criminal action and has the right to know what goes on in the courts during all stages of the trial process.

The newspapers turned to the Supreme Court after the state 2nd District Court of Appeals turned down their request for a writ of prohibition.

The Supreme Court, in issuing the temporary restraining order, asked both sides to file briefs by the end of November. It did not indicate when a final decision would be made.

Moore's trial was scheduled to begin next Monday. And court officials said all three defendants must be tried by Dec. 25 to meet the 90-day limitation between arrest and trial.

It was unclear whether the time limitation still applied in the Moore case due to the Supreme Court action.

Vanished Freighter Was In Good Repair

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The freighter Edmund Fitzgerald was in good repair at the time she sank in a violent November storm Monday on Lake Superior, according to sources close to the investigation of the tragedy.

The giant ore-hauler carried all 29 aboard to a watery grave without a trace.

"She was inspected regularly by the Coast Guard and by the American Board of Shipping," said Capt. E. M. Jacobsen, Marine Superintendent for the Columbia Transportation Division of Oglebay Norton Co. which had chartered the 729-foot vessel since it was launched in 1958.

"She was last inspected about April in Toledo and everything was tip-top," Jacobsen said.

Jacobsen, whose tanned, lined features and graying hair bear witness to a long career on the lakes, said the Fitzgerald apparently snapped in half and went down almost without warning.

"I'm really not in a position to say much at this time," Jacobsen said. "Things will come out in the investigations. But we know from other vessels in the area she was in winds up to 70 miles per hour. I don't see how she could go down any other way."

The theory that the Fitzgerald, loaded with 26,000 tons of taconite pellets, broke in two was supported by other knowledgeable sources.

"We've had reports of two oil slicks," said Cmdr. Dave McCann, second in command of the Sault Coast Guard station. "The slicks were first spotted just far enough apart that one could have come from the front of the vessel and the other from the rear."

Searchers have not been able to confirm, however, because the slicks have disappeared.

"We're looking for evidence that's going to help them solve the mystery," McCann said.

A board of inquiry will convene in Cleveland on Monday, the Coast Guard. The proceedings will be opened to the public.

Capt. D. C. Mania, the Coast Guard's marine inspection officer from St. Ignace, spent all day Wednesday huddled with Coast Guard officers and with officials of the steam ship company. Mania said he was trying to gather information that would prove helpful to the inquiry.

"It's a matter of getting as many documents as we can and finding out where they are," Mania said. "When was she last dry-docked and where? Were there any witnesses and where are they?"

Mania said, "There isn't any information right now. Nothing but debris..."

Wednesday's search effort was hampered by weather and finally was called off shortly after 2 p.m. The Coast Guard said the search was to be continued as soon as weather permitted.

"We had 30 to 40 mile per hour winds out there and 8 to 10 foot waves," Lt. William Holt said, "so we had to call the cutter Woodrush and the tug Naugatuck back into port."

Speeding Appeal Nixed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The physical condition of a speeding vehicle is not a factor in determining if the speed is reasonable, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In a 6-1 decision, the court said state law defining "reasonable or proper speed" concerns itself only with highway conditions, not the mechanical condition of the vehicle.

The decision resolved a conflict in lower court decisions. The 10th District Court of Appeals had ruled that only highway conditions were involved, while the 9th District Court of Appeals said the law also covered the condition of tires and mechanical parts of the vehicles.

The court affirmed the 1973 speeding conviction of Joseph Lemoine Staffell, Jr., a New Philadelphia trucker stopped on U.S. 250 in Wayne County. Staffell was going 65 miles per hour in a 50 m.p.h. zone.

Justice J.J.P. Corrigan dissented from the decision on a separate question. He said he would reverse the conviction because the trial court never took expert testimony on the reliability of the sophisticated "moving radar" used to catch Staffell.

Blaze Hits Uhrichsville

UHRICHSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Fire early today gutted two businesses in a downtown shopping complex and threatened four others before being brought under control.

Firemen said the blaze, which was discovered about 3 a.m., started in Jean's Grill and quickly spread to Hodgkinson's Barber Shop next door.

The two businesses are located in a one-story brick shopping complex built in the 1950's.

A second bar and grill, drug store, electrical appliance store and an office used as a branch court by Tuscarawas County share the building. A fire wall helped prevent the fire from spreading to the units beyond the grill and barber shop, although smoke damage was reported throughout the complex.

Firemen from Uhrichsville and Dennison, plus a snorkel truck from the Dover department fought the blaze.

No dollar estimate of damage was immediately available, and firemen said they had not yet determined the fire's cause.

No injuries were reported.

Club Suits Now Legal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of fraternal organizations have the right to sue their clubs for injuries, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In a unanimous decision, the court overturned a 1933 ruling which held that members constitute the club and had no right to sue themselves.

The court, through an opinion by Justice Thomas M. Herbert, said the legal status of such clubs has changed over the past 40 years, and they are now regarded as separate entities from their members.

Those legal changes make the 1933 precedent obsolete, the court said.

The ruling came in a suit by Mr. and Mrs. George Tanner of Columbus. Tanner, a member of Lodge No. 11 of the Loyal Order of Moose, attempted to sue the club after he slipped on a waxed floor during a club dance on March 19, 1971.

The Franklin County Common Pleas Court refused to hear his suit, saying it was barred by the 1933 decision. The 10th District Court of Appeals agreed.

In reversing those decisions and the 1933 ruling, the court noted that the General Assembly enacted a law in 1955 saying that an unincorporated association "may be sued as an entity..."

Prep Grid Semifinals Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In the midst of another year of controversy, the Ohio high school football playoffs open Friday night with only one defending champion in the 12-team semifinals.

Two teams that did not reach the playoffs, Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary and Bellaire, lost bids Wednesday to have the final computerized ratings refigured.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association board of control voted 6-0 to remain with the final 1975 ratings.

"There are some inequities no matter how it is approached," said Commissioner Harold Meyer after the OHSAA in an extraordinary session denied the two appeals.

St. Vincent-St. Mary assailed Cleveland Holy Name's having two open dates and playing Cleveland University Scholl, a nonmember of the OHSAA.

"I have three open dates next year," said John Cistone, the Akron school's coach. "If we don't fill them, we can pick up 162 points."

St. Vincent-St. Mary, 9-1-0, finished second in Class AA Region Five to Holy Name, 8-0-0.

Bellaire wanted to discount its victories over West Virginia rivals Wheeling, Wheeling Central and Moundsville Marshall. "They wanted to count only the points earned against Ohio schools," said Meyer.

Bellaire, 9-1-0, was second behind 9-1-0 Ironton in Class AA Region Seven. Ironton's lone loss was to Kentucky foe Ashland.

"We're going to meet with the football coaches next month and go over everything to iron out problems for next year," said Meyer, hinting changes will be made.

Middletown Fenwick, the only school to reach the playoffs all four years, opens defense of its Class A championship Friday night against top-ranked Newark Catholic at Groveport High School.

The other Class A semifinal Friday night matches Burton Berkshire and Carey at Mansfield Senior High School.

In Class AA semifinals Friday night, Cleveland Holy Name takes on Oregon Stritch at Baldwin-Wallace College and No. 1 Cincinnati Wyoming plays Ironton in Dayton's Welcome Stadium.

In Class AAA semifinals Saturday night, No. 2 Cincinnati Moeller battles No. 4 Findlay in Welcome Stadium and No. 1 Lakewood St. Edward tests No. 3 Newark in Akron's Rubber Bowl.

The championships all will be played next weekend in the Rubber Bowl. here are the pairings for the 1975 Ohio high school football playoffs:

CLASS AAA
Lakewood St. Edward, 10-0-0, vs. Newark, 10-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Findlay, 10-0-0, vs. Cincinnati Moeller, 10-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dayton's Welcome Stadium.

Championship 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

CLASS AA
Oregon Stritch, 7-3-0, vs. Cleveland Holy Name, 8-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Friday, Baldwin-Wallace College.

Ironton, 9-1-0, vs. Cincinnati Wyoming, 10-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Friday, Dayton's Welcome Stadium.

Championship, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

CLASS A
Newark Catholic, 10-0-0, vs. Middletown Fenwick, 7-3-0, 7:30 p.m. Friday, Groveport High School.

Carey, 8-1-0, vs. Burton Berkshire, 9-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Friday, Mansfield Senior High School.

Championship 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 22, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Dr. Donald O'Donoghue will perform the operation. He said Bench would have no problem being ready for the start of spring training.

The operation will remove some cartilage from the joint on top of his shoulder and a small section of bone from the collar bone.

Bench said he plans to remain in Oklahoma after the operation for the Grand National Quail Shoot. He is an Oklahoma native.

Colonels Whip Spirits; Win 98-81

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's a bird, it's a plane ... well, actually it is a bird. Bird Averitt.

Kentucky's great shooter was flying high Wednesday night, scoring 31 points as the Colonels walloped the Spirits of St. Louis 98-81 in the American Basketball Association.

"I had a good night," Averitt said, "but I'm more glad we won the game — we have so much to prove, we're the defending champs."

Not only did Averitt contribute a season-high point total to the Colonels' victory, but Kentucky's Birdman also collected eight assists and held Spirits guard Freddie Lewis to just eight points — 11 below his average.

"I thought he did a tremendous job of applying pressure to Lewis," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "Freddie had an off-night, but I think that Bird had something to do with it."

In the other ABA games, the Utah Stars humbled the New York Nets 134-114 and the San Antonio Spurs drubbed the Virginia Squires 144-112.

Averitt and Louie Dampier sparked a Kentucky surge early in the second half, leading the Colonels to their easy victory. While the Spirits missed their first 17 shots of the second half, the two Kentucky guards picked apart the St. Louis defense as the Colonels won for the seventh time in eight games.

WHS Must Improve Offense To Gain Shot At SVC Title

MUSTANG CAGERS — Members of the Westfall High School basketball team for the 1975-76 season are, first row from the left, John Long, Neil Keller, Terry Hanson, Eric Schleich, John Schleich, Bill Hamman, and manager J. B. Dick. In the second row are Jeff Karshner, Mike Weidinger, Mack Dick, Larry Bilek, Randy Hildenbrand, Chris Riddle, Bill Evans, and Mark Carter.

By DAVE AMEY
Ten seniors, players who as sophomores won the Scioto Valley Conference reserve title, will be vying for starting positions on the 1975-76 Westfall basketball team.

But it won't be an all-senior team, says head coach Mike Eckle, who is beginning his third year at the helm of the Mustangs. "We hope the juniors on the squad can help us out," he said. "In fact, two or three are capable of taking starting positions away from the seniors."

Coach Eckle currently has 14 players contending for the varsity team. He started with 21 players, cut down to 14, and now must decide whether to carry 14 or 12 players.

By positions, the Mustangs will have:
Guards — Bill Hamman, 5-8 senior who is the "best fundamental shooter" on the team; Terry Hanson, 5-11 senior who placed in the top 10 in the league in free throw shooting last year with a 60 per cent conversion rate; John Schleich, 5-11 senior who should add some muscle to the back line; Neil Keller, a 5-8 junior whose speed will be an asset to both the defense and offense; and John Long, a 5-11 junior who Eckle tabs "a good shooter."

Forwards — Jeff Karshner, a 6-1 senior who figured in the top 10 in rebounding in the loop last year with an 8.4 per game average; Bill Evans, a 6-1 senior who played guard last year but was switched to capitalize on his fine outside shot; Chris Riddle, a 6-3 senior whose experience and quickness are counted on; Randy Hildenbrand, a 6-1 senior who is rough under the boards; Larry Bilek, a 6-2 junior who has only a year's experience but who has a good outside shot; and Eric Schleich, a 6-foot junior speedster.

Centers — Kevin Reid, a 6-7 senior, headed the list of candidates until he hurt his back. The burly Reid, who lead his team in percentage shooting with a 48.8 per cent average and rebounding with 8.6 a game last year, has been playing, though; Mack Dick, a 6-2 senior who can also switch to a forward post; and Mark Carter, a 6-3½ center who Eckle says is playing "real well" despite a lack of experience.

Last season this same bunch of players (minus grad Doug Williams and a senior who elected not to play this year) battled for fourth place in the Scioto Valley Conference, which was one of the toughest leagues in Central Ohio.

The Mustangs were first in the league in rebounding, averaging 46.3 rebounds a game, and second in overall defense, limiting the opponents to 56.1 points a game.

Not bad, Eckle says. But offensively, the Mustangs were less than efficient.

They tied with Piketon for last place in scoring, averaging only 52.5 points a contest. And they were last in field goal percentage, hitting only 22.7 of 666 shots for a per game average of 34.1 per cent.

"The key to our season will be if we shoot well or not," Coach Eckle said. The Mustangs, like last year, are shooting like state champs in practice, he said. "But last year, when it came to Friday nights, it seemed like they had eight thumbs."

To aid the offense in finding its shooting touch, Coach Eckle plans to "let the kids play the way they want to. We'll open it up a little more, get away from our patterned offense, and let them run a little."

WATCHFUL EYE — Westfall High School basketball Coach Mike Eckle takes a close look at the shooting form of his cagers. Coach Eckle feels that the shooting ability of his team could spell the difference for the Mustangs this year.

Defensively, "we'd like to finish as well as last year," he said, noting that the defense should be a little quicker and consequently better.

The Mustangs will operate with more man-to-man defense this year "if our inside men can play it well enough," Eckle said.

And he also has his team playing variations of zone defenses to be used against some teams.

Helping the Mustangs prepare for each game by scouting are reserve coach Dennis Karshner, Coach Eckle himself, John Butts, Neal Coleman, Tom Beard, and John Glanton.

The Mustangs have completed one scrimmage thus far, looking "pretty good" against Miami Trace last week. They will tangle with Ironton and Washington C.H. Saturday morning at Washington, and play against Unioto Monday, Nov. 17, at 6 p.m. at the Westfall gym.

The Mustangs will be playing in a "super-strong league" this year, Eckle feels.

He sees Adena as the top contender for the crown, followed by Zane Trace and Southeastern. Huntington is "respectable", Piketon "big and physical", and Paint Valley "better than last year."

And the Mustangs? "Well, we can improve a great deal if we shoot in games like we shoot in practice," he said.

Here is the complete schedule of Westfall games:

Soap Box Derby In Trouble Again

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Trustees of the All American Soap Box Derby meet today to tackle money problems that could force cancellation of the 39th running of the gravity race.

Ron Baker, general manager of the event, said the trustees will ponder what to do in the wake of Uniroyal Corp.'s decision not to help fund the race in 1976.

ALL WOUND UP—A large spool of steel wire is hoisted into place among other spools used in building radial truck tires at Goodyear's plant in Danville, Va. About a mile of wire goes into each tire.

Reds Seeking Pitcher-Maybe

CINCINNATI (AP) — The World Champion Cincinnati Reds, who set a major league record last season for the most consecutive incomplete games by pitchers, are looking for a front-line hurler, but President Bob Howsam is reluctant to break up a winning combination.

"I've never felt anyone is untouchable," said Howsam, "but there are players on this team that somebody would have to give up a franchise to get."

"I don't expect to make many moves," Howsam added, "but we really haven't been very active. I'm not anxious to do anything at this time."

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson was nicknamed "Captain Hook" following an injury to starter Don Gullett during mid-season when he used his staff in tandem going 45 games without a pitcher completing a game.

Howsam said he is hopeful that the extensive Cincinnati farm system will provide the needed starters if the Reds are unable to make a trade.

"We've got some young pitchers who will be making a strong bid for the ball club," said Howsam.

The Reds did not have a 20-game winner among their pitchers during the past season.

"I've talked to a few teams, but we really haven't been active. I'm not anxious to do anything at this time." He said he felt several younger pitchers on the present staff might develop.

A prime prospect is Tom Payne, whom Anderson feels will be a starter within a few years.

Three years ago Howsam engineered a massive trade with Houston that brought Joe Morgan, Cesar Geronimo and Jack Billingham to the Reds.

Billingham, a 19-game winner in 1973 and 1974 slipped to 15-10 this season and has been rumored to be on the trading block. Right hander Clay Kirby, who lost his spot in the regular rotation, is also the subject of trade speculation.

A year ago, Howsam was scouring the major leagues for a third baseman. He was willing to part with slugging first baseman Tony Perez. But the swap fell through and the Reds moved Pete Rose from left field to third and put George Foster in the outfield. The combination proved out when Cincinnati won a club record 108 games.

"I think I was most pleased with the way Pete Rose plugged the gap at third base, plus the way our young players like Ken Griffey and George Foster came along," said Howsam.

"It's nice to win, but now we have to go back and get it done again."

10 States Top In Corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten states are accounting for 83 per cent, or about 4.8 billion bushels, of this year's record corn crop — estimated by the Agriculture Department this week at 5.8 billion bushels.

The biggest producer is Illinois with more than 1.2 billion bushels of corn this year, a 49 per cent increase from its 1974 harvest. Kansas is in 10th place with about 134.2 million bushels, up 2 per cent from last year.

Iowa corn production, which suffered some drought loss early this season, was put at 1.1 billion bushels, up 16 per cent from the state's 1974 harvest. Other state increases from last year included: Indiana 46 per cent; Michigan 34; Minnesota 14; Missouri 16; Nebraska 34; Ohio 22; and Wisconsin 31. Over-all, the entire U.S. corn crop is up 25 per cent from last year.

The state corn percentage increases were listed Wednesday in a weekly weather review issued by the department. It also showed that about 90 per cent of the nation's corn crop was harvested by Nov. 9, compared with 71 per cent on the same date last year.

Ambulance Kidnap Eyed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal Bureau of Investigation offices in Cincinnati and Knoxville, Tenn., are checking the reported kidnaping of two suburban Cincinnati ambulance attendants found bound in their vehicle Tuesday on Interstate 75 south of Knoxville.

The FBI said Robert Clark, 23, of Bethel, Ohio, and Michael Doushman, 19, of Madeira, Ohio, reported they were forced at gunpoint to drive a man south after they stopped to offer help when they saw a car apparently broken down along the interstate in Cincinnati.

The men told authorities the gunman tied and left them after a tire blew out on their ambulance.

The FBI said the Shoemaker Ambulance Co. never reported the men missing nor could the abandoned car be found in Cincinnati.

Juvenile Law Change Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — David J. D'Aquila, former director of communications in the Ohio Youth Commission, has been appointed a special assistant to Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to head a project to draft proposed changes in Ohio's juvenile delinquency laws.

Brown said the juvenile justice system in the state "is in chaos." He said there was an increase in juvenile crime, juvenile courts were overcrowded and state institutions were overcrowded.

"There is something wrong with a system that takes a kid who is a truant from school and puts him in an institution with somebody who can teach him to steal a car," Brown said.

Brown said he hopes to submit proposed changes in the law, which will enable Ohio to comply with the new federal juvenile delinquency act, early in 1976.

Folgers Coffee Quarters Moved

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Folgers Coffee Co. headquarters in Kansas City, is being moved to Cincinnati by Procter & Gamble Co. which acquired the firm in 1963.

About 100 management personnel will be moved to Cincinnati.

P&G said the coffee plant will remain in Kansas City, and personnel responsible for plant operations will not be affected.

The move will take place gradually over the next year, a spokesman said.

Name Monument Superintendent

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The National Park Service said Alford J. Banta, supervisory park ranger at Colorado National Monument, has been named superintendent of Perry's Victory and International Peace Memorial at Put-In-Bay, Ohio.

Banta, 32, joined the National Park Service in 1968 as a ranger at Pinnacles National Monument in California. He has been in Colorado since June, 1973.

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

The editor of The Herald, Steve Jones, could not have described the excellence of the Roundtown Players production "Brigadoon" any better. We were privileged to be in Friday night's audience and loved every minute of it. With me was Mary Alice Greenwood who, I venture to say, has missed precious few of the plays presented by RTP. And also with us were Amy Easterday and Sheryl Cox who were attending their very first live theater and what a joyful experience it was for them. At ten and eleven years of age it was the thrill of their tender years and one that will leave a happy impression for their lifetime, I am sure. They both are enthusiastically eager to attend more.

Throughout the delightful performance our Amy frequently questioned why she had never been taken before and it was a question this mother could not easily answer. One thing is certain it surely is not necessary to travel a great distance to enrich a child's life — we really have it all right here at home. It is a custom of RTP to enclose a ballot with the program encouraging each patron to vote on the three performers considered best and believe this is extremely difficult to make a choice. If, after this reaches print, there is still time to attend "Brigadoon" please do. Furthermore, if you have children — take them! Edna West and Anabel Rhinesmith of our town were in the audience the same night we were.

Naturally, before we went to enjoy "Brigadoon" we supped seafood at our favorite Friday night establishment, in Chillicothe. It was sort of Pickaway County night since we glimpsed or talked with several from here such as Galen and Annabelle Mowery, Francis and Ruth Snyder, the Loren Neffs, Mrs. George Hamrick with the Brudzinski's, Mildred Dowden and Margaret Evans and the Caldwell's. Since I prefer to go rather early to eat we often miss seeing a number of others from our area who dine there, too. For instance a wee bird gave me the message that this past Friday night Gary and Sandy Wiscup and their Tracey and Brian, Darrell and Glenna Wiscup and their Drew and Brian's good friend Scott Hill were all giving the 15 varieties of seafood a try.

The first Tuesday of the Month euechre club was entertained at the home of Janet Clifton and for a real change of pace dear sweet Barbie Rickman won a prize. Fact of the matter is, she won two prizes. The club has been organized since last January and this is her first time to win so we all gave three cheers and a couple of hurrahs. Also taking home prizes were Eggie Hayes and Betty Clifton. Other members present and accounted for were Dot Burris, Dolly Thompson, Stew Forsythe and yours truly.

It was the pleasure of Jeannine Hamman, Mary A. Greenwood and myself to be invited to the home of Edna H. Newhouse last Thursday for an evening of canasta. The hostess served a truly delicious dessert course.

My next card playing stint was Tuesday evening for canasta at the home of Colleen Justice. I would rather play cards than eat (by the looks of me I need to play cards more often). Prize winners at this canasta club were Pearl Cochenour, Mae Litter, Jackie Hopper and Helen Timmons who was subbing for Margene Looney (who was really missed — we weren't used to the silence). Also playing were Esther Picklesimer and Dorothy Carle. As is the custom in this club the hostess outdid herself with a scrumptious buffet spread. Now I know my problem, I am playing cards and eating, too!

The word has been given to me that the fan club of Jeff Mowery and friends J.R. Hamman and Dave Valone have missed seeing their names in this column. In case you missed the names the first time they are Jeff Mowery, J.R. Hamman and Dave Valone. How's that sports fans? I try to cooperate.

Little thirteen month old Matthew Carle let Grandpa Lawrence and Grandmom Dorothy Carle know who had the upper hand for nearly three weeks while his daddy and mommy, Tom and Laureen Carle of Wilmington, were delighting in the sights and sounds of an European vacation. First they flew to Rome and from there enjoyed parts of Italy especially the Vatican City where they had the wonderful opportunity of seeing Pope Paul VI. A two day sightseeing tour by train encompassed the area from Rome to Geneva, Switzerland. The travelers had the good fortune to be blessed with excellent weather the entire time. On the return flight they had a stopover at Shannon, Ireland where they were much impressed by the cleanliness and beauty of the airport. This held special significance to the couple since Tom is associated with Overseas National Airlines overhaul base located at Wilmington.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter finally came to Ohio overnight.

Temperatures dropped steadily through the night across Ohio and dawn brought a few light flurries into the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 34 in Youngstown to 39 in Cincinnati.

A trough of low pressure moving toward Ohio was expected to spread flurries across the entire state today. A few snow squalls were possible along the east lake shore. Although flurries were likely everywhere in the state today, little or no accumulation was expected except along the lake shore from Cleveland east. Accumulations in the snow belt could amount to as much as two inches in the snow squalls.

The National Weather Service predicted winds of 30 to 40 knots on Lake Erie this afternoon and issued gale warnings. Waves from 5 to 10 feet were forecast.

The northwest winds were to pump cold air over the lake into Ohio, dropping temperatures into the low 30s by late afternoon. Flurries are likely tonight in northeastern Ohio, while there is a chance of a few flurries falling over the rest of the state.

Gusty winds to 30 miles an hour will make lows in the 20s feel even colder.

Partly cloudy skies will move into western Ohio Friday, while a few flurries linger in the eastern counties. Temperatures will climb only into the 30s.

Congratulations are in order for Donna Carle who has just graduated from Good Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing at Cincinnati. Lawrence and Dorothy and grandson Matthew visited with Donna on Thursday. Donna's present plans are to come home for a short while to visit with friends and family members before assuming fulltime nursing responsibilities.

Have you ever met someone for the very first time and instantly known that the person was a warm, friendly, wonderful human being? So it was when local folks met Wilford and Evelyn Howell this past week. This couple from Leavittsburg, Ohio (near Warren) have been the houseguests of son and daughter-in-law Jim and Betty Howell and grandchildren Missy, LuAnn and Thadd. They arrived last Thursday at the hour of 2 p.m. which normally isn't anything unusual except in their case it was the exact hour of their wedding fifty years ago at that time. Some coincidence, huh?

The 50th wedding anniversary was celebrated with a family dinner at Wardell's Party Home on Saturday. A truly magnificent 4-tiered wedding cake, a creation of Dorothy Phelps, enhanced the tables beautifully decorated with miniature brides and grooms, golden candles and other appropriate golden anniversary items.

Family members assembled to wish mom, dad (grandma, grandpa) the very best were Mr. and Mrs. Highland (Winnie Howell) Smith and sons Rick, David and his wife Cindy all of Hannibal, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Joann Howell) Blair and daughter Elaine, sons John, Joe and his wife Wanda and their Allen from Coshocton; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Howell and sons Larry and Jack of Warren; Jim and Betty Howell, Missy, LuAnn and Thadd of our town. The only family member unable to be present was grandson Jim Blair of Coshocton. Longtime friend of the couple, Dorothy Phelps joined the family celebration from time to time when here duties of preparing that yummy food she is famous for permitted. The honored couple was so pleased with the gifts lovingly given them such as a money tree laden with that green stuff, a huge planter filled with golden mums, many cards and from the "kids" lovely matching golden wedding bands.

The visiting couple attended the Westfall-Southeastern football game last Friday night especially to hear the Westfall band in which grandson Thadd is a member. Thadd will also be a part of the cast in the junior class play this coming Friday.

Margie Drummond is again a patient at University Hospital having been admitted this past Monday. We do hope her stay is brief and her recovery swift.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willing. Take Care.

Stan Arnold Starts Race For President

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanley Arnold says his recording of patriotic songs will help him become President.

Arnold, a former Cleveland who co-founded the Pick-N-Pay supermarket chain, is scheduled to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination here today.

He said he has produced a $10 record album of 14 patriotic songs and presidential speeches. Besides Mary Martin singing the Star Spangled Banner, he said, "I've got Franklin Roosevelt with his 'All we have to fear is fear itself.' I've got John Kennedy with his, 'Ask not what your country can do for you.' I've got Harry Truman impersonating H. V. Kaltenborn announcing that Dewey had won the election. We'll pave the road to the White House with $10 bills."

Arnold said he has raised $100,000 and has over 3,000 signatures needed to get his name on the New Hampshire primary ballot.

After he left Cleveland in 1951, Arnold joined a New York advertising agency and they founded Stanley Arnold & Associates, a problem-solving agency for many large corporations.

Among his campaign platforms are the firing of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, appointing women to the cabinet and the U.S. Supreme Court and inducing corporations to hire additional employees in exchange for tax breaks.

Arnold will be the 11th and perhaps least known Democratic candidate. But he discounts his anonymity. All other candidates are drab, he said.

"Take Sen. Jackson, for instance," Arnold explained. "He's going nowhere on the polls because he can put you to sleep with a handshake."

Light Diesel Engine Output Set

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Officials of Perkins Diesel Corp. outlined plans Wednesday to build about 100,000 diesel engines a year for light and medium-sized trucks by 1980 at its plant here.

The company expects the diesel engines for lighter trucks to be a "real growth segment," said Kenneth E. Glass, Perkins president.

He said that the 800,000-square foot engine plant here will begin production next spring. Perkins intends to hire about 300 persons in March and to have hired about 1,500 by 1980, he said.

Glass said the company intends to upgrade the plant which it bought from the Cleveland-based White Motor Corp. earlier this year.

The first engines produced at the plant will be of six-cylinder models. A four-cylinder model will be produced later.

Soybean Prices Driven Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge 1975 soybean crop is continuing to put downward pressure on prices, meaning that farmers may get around $4.75 a bushel for beans this season, according to market analysts in the Agriculture Department.

Although not yet announced, one USDA official said Wednesday that the $4.75 average — which is for the entire 1975-76 soybean season — is “being talked about seriously” at the present time. The department just last month estimated that 1975-crop soybeans would bring farmers an average of about $5 a bushel.

The revised price estimate is being worked on as the result of this week’s new crop production report which showed that the soybean harvest as of Nov. 1 would yield 1.52 billion bushels, up 3 per cent from the Oct. 1 forecast.

Thus, if prices average just 25 cents a bushel lower than previously expected, that translates into a reduction of about $380 million in what farmers will get for the near-record crop.

The big crop, when piled on top of reserves from last year, means a record soybean supply for 1975-76 of 1.7 billion bushels. Even with some improvement in domestic use and exports, the soybean stockpile at the end of the season next Aug. 31 is expected to be in the range of 325 million to 425 million bushels against 186 million at the start of this marketing year on Sept. 1.

If the unofficial estimate of $4.75 per bushel for 1975 soybeans is accurate, it would be the lowest season price since farmers got $4.37 per bushel for their 1972 crop. Last season they averaged a record high of $6.50 per bushel.

The fade in soybean prices also will have a ripple effect when farmers begin planting 1976 crops, particularly cotton, according to USDA analysts. As cotton prices sank early this year, many farmers in the South turned to soybeans and reduced cotton plantings sharply. Corn and grain sorghum in some cotton areas also were popular alternatives.

Cotton production this year, beset by insects and poor weather in addition to the acreage slice, is estimated at 9.03 million bales, down 22 per cent from 1974. That was the estimate as of Nov. 1, and officials say there has probably been further deterioration since then.

As a result of the small crop and an improvement in cotton use by textile mills, prices have improved dramatically since their low marks of around 32 cents a pound last April. As of Oct. 15, cotton averaged 49.8 cents a pound nationally at farms, according to USDA.

Thus, with the sag in soybean fortunes and the improvement in cotton, farmers may switch back substantially to the latter next year. One USDA analyst said farmers might boost cotton plantings to around 11.5 million acres and possibly higher if cotton prices reach 55 cents a pound by planting time next spring as some experts think possible.

Growers planted less than 10.1 million acres of cotton in 1975, the smallest acreage since 1967, and down sharply from 13.7 million in 1974.

“We know farmers are going to plant something, and with soybean prices the way they are we think they’ll go back to cotton,” the USDA analyst said.

Local Grange Youth Unit Wins Contest

The Pickaway County Grange Youth received first place in banner competition at the 109th session of the National Grange being held in Columbus this week.

The competition was open to all youth organizations in Grange states throughout America. Entries in the competition in Columbus numbered about 30. The theme of the local banner was “The Grange Wants You”.

The youth organization also served a reception for the Natiaol Youth Candidates last evening at the Neil House during the first party for the youth visiting the convention.

Assisting at the reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lands, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crites, Barbara McKenzie, Ron Chesser, Joan Dawson, Randy and Mark Wolfe, Melissa and Debi Archer, Paul Dunkle, Brenda, Bonnie, and Barbara Bolender, and youth advisor Bob Lands.

Tuberculosis Incidence Reported

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland reported 294 cases of tuberculosis in 1974 to lead Ohio cities in the incidence of the disease, the Northern Ohio Lung Association said Wednesday.

Youngstown, however, had the highest rate of tuberculosis for Ohio cities with populations between 100,000 and 250,000. For cities over 250,000, the survey says, Cincinnati had the highest incidence, followed by Akron, Columbus and Toledo.

“Tuberculosis is still a significant health problem,” said Dr. Fritz Vander Kuyp, Cuyahoga County tuberculosis controller. “It seems that tuberculosis today is predominantly a disease of blacks, the povertystricken and the older population.” He added that while blacks comprise about 20 per cent of the population in the United States, more than 50 per cent of tuberculosis occurs in blacks.

He said the disease is twice as prevalent in Cleveland for men over the age of 45 than for women of the same age.

The Northern Ohio Lung Association figures were based on a study by the U.S. Public Health Service survey. The study shows that Ohio had the lowest rate of tuberculosis cases in states with more than 10 million population. Texas has the most, trailed by New York, California and Illinois, the study says.

Printing Pressmen's Union has been negotiating for about two and one-half months with Fitzpatrick Printing Company in your community.

No progress has been made.

Would you believe that the employees at Fitzpatrick work without a pension? Have no hospitalization insurance? Only receive one week vacation with pay for up to fifteen years service with the company?

Would you work under such conditions? These are the conditions at Fitzpatrick.

The lowest paid man at Fitzpatrick receives $2.25 per hour. Could you support a family on that?

To date Fitzpatrick Printing has offered ten cents an hour increase in wages for the first year of a proposed contract and another ten cents for the second year.

All these things have led to a strike at Fitzpatrick Printing. We thought you would like to know.

Your support is appreciated.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): By-pass the irrelevant and immaterial. This is a day for making top-rank gains if you begin early and follow through, effectively capitalizing on your very fine capabilities.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Overlook petty annoyances. As with Aries, there's too much of real importance on which to concentrate. Do not let fine opportunities or lucrative offerings pass unheeded.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Some lack of harmony indicated. Proceed today with prudence, forethought. When considering widely divergent opinions, evaluate carefully.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Don't be thrown off guard by fancy-sounding, but possibly misleading, propositions. Study the overall picture. Where there's REAL value, however, don't hesitate.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Ingenuity and a fresh approach to certain situations could brighten this day considerably. Soft-pedal complaints and curb your innate aggressiveness.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Be realistic now and pursue only worthwhile goals. Take temporary delays in stride. Opportunity offered through clever use of your creative ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some advances indicated, especially in the fields of art, designing. New suggestions may be made to you. Appraise carefully, noting all factors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Tackle all situations without taking a dim view of problem areas. There are always solutions — many! The eager, watchful and hopeful eye sees them more quickly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Stress your innate prudence and perceptiveness. Constructive interests favored. Avoid doubts and fears. You should have a bright and happy day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Certain changes are in order, others are NOT. Don't go "against the grain" needlessly nor penetrate too deeply into unknown seas before you have the know-how and the facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Curb an impulse to undertake enterprises you would not ordinarily consider.

Stellar influences now suggest that you stick to routine, avoid chance-taking of any sort.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Explore further means to solve problems that came up in the past, are still on the docket. Fulfill a cherished wish by working for it. Don't just daydream.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by a zodiacal Sign of strength, purpose, versatility, mental and physical vitality. You like people, travel for adventure and stimulating enterprises. Using your talents to their fullest, you could succeed in almost any field of your choice but, if undeveloped and indifferent to responsibility, you could easily become a playboy or, at best, a dilettante with little accomplishment to your credit. On the higher plane, you could look forward to success in any of the following fields: science, business management, music, literature, the law or invention. Birthdate of: Charles Lyell, geologist; Prince Charles of England.

No Banner Allowed For Howard Cosell

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Bengals officials have ruled out making any exceptions that would permit banners to decorate Riverfront Stadium Monday night when the National Football League team hosts the Buffalo Bills in a nationally televised contest.

"It is the policy of the Bengals not to have signs and has been so since we moved into the stadium in 1970," said Bengals business manager John Mordough. "We feel the stadium looks better without them and no exceptions will be made."

The signs have become part of the color at many Monday night games broadcast by ABC-TV, with many of the signs referring to the three sportscasters Alex Karras, Frank Gifford and Howard Cosell.

If you have a luggage or bicycle rack on your car it should be checked frequently to be sure that it is remaining in a secure position.

Drivers should always dim their lights when approaching a car from behind, since bright lights can bounce off a rear-view mirror into the other driver's eyes.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS is becoming tight, as the saying is tonight "Foster and goes, only after each learns Laurie," a somewhat glib, yet the other was a Marine and well-acted dramatization of that they served at about the lives of two young rookie same time in the Vietnam cops who were ambushed and war, albeit in different units. killed here in January 1972. Foster was black, Laurie white. Tonight's movie shows that each initially distrusted the other, Laurie because he was uneasy working with a black, Foster because he suspected his fellow cop of bigotry.

In one scene, Foster says that to get closer to the people, cops have got to patrol on foot, not in a police car. Says Laurie, "That's a good way to get a brick dropped on your head — ghetto airmail."

How they become close friends, an effective team on their racially-diverse beat, and subsequently marked for death by a small band of black extremists is amply shown in tonight's two-hour film.

Dorian Harewood is superb as Foster and Perry King performance as his white partner. Alas, Albert Ruben's script doesn't equal their performances. While it points out that the two cops and their families never socialized with each other, despite the officers' closeness, it makes the Foster/Laurie relationship too simplistic, too pat.

It depicts the two cops as

Upland Game Season To Open Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Wildlife Division officials say Ohio hunters should find ample game to harvest during the upland game season for rabbit, pheasant, quail and dove which opens Friday.

But they alerted hunters that a new program of stepped-up patrols by several Natural Resources Department divisions is planned to protect the private property rights of landowners.

Dale Haney, Wildlife Division chief, said surveys conducted by rural mail carriers indicate populations of rabbit, pheasant and quail are down in some areas and up in others.

"Small game populations fluctuate because of variations in habitat conditions and inclement weather from year to year," Haney said.

Based on the surveys, Haney said the following counties should provide the best hunting for each species:

Rabbit — Pike, Muskingum, Jackson, Gallia, Athens, Lucas, Hocking, Licking, Scioto and Mahoning.

Pheasant — Mahoning, Ross, Pickaway, Fayette, Columbiana, Madison, Erie, Fulton, Lucas and Lake.

Natural Resources Director Robert W. Teater said the program to protect private property rights was formulated in a series of conferences with C. William Swank, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The program will involve stepped-up ground and air patrol efforts by the 88 county game protectors and other Wildlife enforcement agents, with assistance from personnel in the divisions of Parks and Recreation, Forestry, and Watercraft.

"The great majority of hunters are responsible individuals, but there are those who unthinkingly do not respect the rights of others," Teater said.

"We are asking people to be sure to get permission before they hunt on farmland and to be aware that the law requiring landowners' permission will be strictly enforced."

Bengals Face Bills

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals hope they haven't forgotten how to bottle "The Juice."

That's O. J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills rampaging running back who hopes to break his all-time National Football League rushing record of 2,003 yards this season.

"All he needs is a little crack and he's gone," says Bob Brown, the hulking 280-pound defensive tackle of the Bengals.

"We've got to keep him from busting loose," said Brown, the former All-Pro at Green Bay.

Two years ago, the Bengals were one of only two teams to hold Simpson under the 100-yard mark. He got 99 and the Bengals emerged with a 16-13 victory on a last-second field goal by Horst Muhlmann.

"There's no secret to stopping a guy like him," says Coach Paul Brown. "It still comes down to team defense."

The game gives every indication of being a wide-open, offensive affair.

"Simpson not only leads the league in rushing, but Buffalo leads the whole league in total offense," said Brown. Simpson has already surpassed the 1,000-yard mark and has collected 178 more than the entire rushing total amassed by Cincinnati.

The Bills, 5-3, have the No. 1 ground game in the American Conference and in quarterback Joe Ferguson possess the league's top passer. He has completed 97 of 175 passes for 1,490 yards.

Flyers Top Sabres

By The Associated Press

"Do we have a jinx over Buffalo?," pondered Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero. "I don't know but I hope so."

"I don't believe in jinxes but there must be something ..."

Shero's Flyers met the Sabres Wednesday night for the first time since the two battled it out in the finals of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs last season. Philadelphia won that time and they won this time too, posting a 3-1 victory. Buffalo has lost eight times and tied once in its last nine regular-season meetings with the Flyers.

"I know we can't always play as well as we did tonight," said Shero, "but we keep beating them."

Elsewhere in the NHL, California whipped the New York Islanders 5-1, Atlanta edged Kansas City 2-1, Chicago tied the New York Rangers 4-4 and Pittsburgh and Washington skated to a 6-6 standoff.

There was just one game played in the World Hockey Association and New England won it 4-1 over Houston.

Nation's, Ohio's Wetlands Shrink

By JIM DAUBEL

Written for Associated Press

An estimated 100 million ducks, geese and swans are winging south en route to warmer quarters for the winter. At their destinations and on the way, they'll find decent accommodations scarcer than ever before.

The nation's wetlands are shrinking. Ohio's are, too.

Approximately 127 million acres of swamps, marshes, lakes, estuaries and river sloughs existed in the United States in 1900, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Fewer than 82 million acres remain, including about 20 million acres of particular value to waterfowl.

In Ohio, less than 30,000 remain of 300,000 acres of wetlands that once offered nesting and resting opportunities to waterfowl in the Lake Erie marsh region alone, reports Karl Bednarik, waterfowl biologist with the wildlife division.

Statewide, Ohio has some 98,000 acres of waterfowl habitat today. About half is publicly owned and half is in private hands, including about 24,000 acres specifically managed by clubs for hunting, Bednarik noted in a study of the entire Mississippi Flyway.

Nationally, coastal wetlands are disappearing at a rate of from one half to one per cent a year, according to Editorial Research Reports, a Washington-based news service. Marshes are being drained, sloughs filled and potholes plowed for farming, shopping centers, highways, residential tracts and other commercial purposes.

Maintaining prime waterfowl habitat is an extraordinarily expensive undertaking. Dikes destroyed by high water at the state's 2,600-acre Magee Marsh on Lake Erie, for example, are being repaired at a cost of $2.7 million, most of it federal money.

The federal government is purchasing wetlands with funds derived from the sale of $5 waterfowl hunting stamps. Last year about $12 million from stamp sales went to buy wetlands. Since 1934 when the stamp program began, hunters have financed more than $160 million in wetlands acquisition. Ohioans have purchased about 35,000 stamps annually for the past several years.

Private interests are the backbone of wetlands preservation and management. Of Ohio's 30,000 or fewer acres along western Lake Erie, the state owns perhaps 4,000. The rest, including some 7,000 acres held by two large shooting clubs, is privately owned.

Nationwide, some 11,000 private hunting clubs have preserved more than 5.2 million acres of wetlands. Conservation groups such as the Nature Conservancy, Ducks Unlimited and National Audubon Society control an additional 400,000 acres.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service this year is encouraging nonhunters to help contribute to wetlands preservation by purchasing duck stamps. Hunters no longer can carry the load themselves, and without everybody's cooperation, it may be too late to stem the tide of vanishing habitat, the federal service says.

Dizzie Dan Winner Of Latonia Feature

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Dizzie Dan won the featured pace mile at Latonia by a neck in 2:07 2-5 Wednesday night and paid $4.60, $3 and $3.40.

Meadow Ann was second, paying $3.40 and $3, and Seneca Lad, third, paid $3.80.

Noma Hona and First Morning combined 3-4 in the daily double for $32.60. A 3-8 consolation double of $7 was declared when Iowa Lion tripped in the stretch and was disqualified when he slid 50 feet across the finish line.

Attendance was 1,373 and the betting totaled $113,340.

LE Schools Try New Approach To Teacher Training

Teacher involvement is the key to the new approach in providing teacher in-service for the elementary schools of the Logan Elm District.

This type of program has been provided through the efforts of an Elementary Curriculum Council formed this year. Each elementary school is represented on the Council with teacher delegates designated by fellow teachers. The superintendent and all principals are honorary members of the Council.

One of the responsibilities of the Council is to provide in-service meetings with the teachers of each elementary school selecting an area of the curriculum and organizing an in-service for the benefit of all elementary teachers in the Logan Elm School District.

Organizational members of the Curriculum Council are Betty Melton, Pickaway; Phyllis Akers, Washington; Marcia Robertson, Saltcreek; Clara Richter, Laurelville; and Opal Sims, curriculum coordinator for the district.

The first of the series of in-service workshops planned for this year was held recently at the Pickaway Township School.

The staff of Pickaway conducted the reading meeting and the theme chosen was "The Frustrated Reading Teacher", written by Drema Scott.

All teachers and the principal, Alfred Gabriel, participated in a skit which portrayed a teacher who was ready to give up teaching because of the various problems encountered in teaching children to read. This "frustrated teacher" wins the sympathy of the other staff members who get together and decide to help her with some ideas for games and reading activities.

The games and activities were demonstrated by the Pickaway staff to the other Logan Elm District teachers who acted as participating students.

Following the activities period, a "make and take" session was held in the gym. Here, ideas were displayed which could be adapted to all reading levels and which could be easily constructed. Work tables were provided and everyone could make an aid to use later in the classroom.

The purpose of the Reading Workshop was to provide ideas for games and aids which could add motivation and spark to the reading program and also to show that aids can be simple and fun. It was pointed out that the aids don't need to be fancy or store-bought, and that the basements provide a wealth of materials to use.

Plans are presently being initiated by the Curriculum Council for another in-service in January hosted by the principal, Dale Drake, and staff of the Washington Twp. School.

WORK NEVER DONE — Mrs. Barbara Brooks of Washington Twp. School shows that different methods can be aids in reading programs. Teachers employ many reinforcements to encourage youngsters to enjoy their reading experience.

LEARNING GAMES — Charles Dean, principal of Laurelville, and David Gleason, principal of the McDowell School, show that games can be used as a teaching and learning tool for both teachers and students.

TRAIN OF IDEAS — Mrs. Kathleen McGuire and Mrs. Drema Scott from Pickaway Twp. School demonstrate a novel way to interest a child in reading.

IDEAS UNLIMITED — Mrs. Ken Henn of Washington Twp. school takes many notes about the wealth of materials which can be used for reading classes. This sharing of ideas motivates teachers to try new techniques.

NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN — Mrs. Nancy Ann Dettra from the McDowell kindergarten and Mrs. Phyllis Akers from Washington Twp. listen as Mrs. Donna Hansford from Pickaway instructs teachers about ideas and materials to be used in various grade levels for success in the district's reading programs.

BLENDS OF AIDS — Charles Pritchard, principal of Saltcreek School, and Margaret Chilcote examine a teacher-made chart of blends which can easily be used in many grade levels to motivate reading.

Bicentennial Theme Announced By Kiwanis

"The Volunteer and the Nation" will be the theme of the Bicentennial program of Kiwanis International, and the Kiwanis Club of Circleville according to Ray Cundiff, president of the club.

"Kiwanis will direct all its Bicentennial programs toward dramatizing this theme," he said. He explained that the purpose of the theme is to show that voluntary action has been a powerful force in the development of our country during the past two hundred years. "It has helped in the solution of human problems and the achievement of worthwhile things," he said.

Throughout the United States, according to Ray Cundiff, Kiwanis clubs will undertake such activities as acknowledging outstanding volunteers of the community, explaining to younger citizens especially students, the role of the volunteer in the development of the nation; presenting Bicentennial gifts to their communities; encouraging international visitations to show people from overseas how Americans are living at the time of their country's 200th birthday; and, most importantly, cooperating with other Bicentennial groups within their communities to help make the Bicentennial a dramatic and meaningful activity.

The Circleville Kiwanians are planning to use the Bicentennial theme to dramatize the basic concept of Kiwanis — that voluntary action is a powerful force in the solution of human problems and achievement of worthwhile goals — a concept as true today as it was 200 years ago. The Kiwanis Bicentennial Committee will develop programs that will emphasize the role of the volunteer in the community. Volunteer groups and individual volunteers will be honored; programs will be undertaken which will mark and dramatize the anniversary itself.

CB Radios Taken From Parked Cars

Two citizen band radios were taken from cars parked at the Berger Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

A Midland CB unit valued at $219 was taken from a car owned by Patricia Ann Myers, Route 5, about 3:15 p.m.

The vehicle was locked at the time of the theft. The window had been forced down about a half an inch, apparently during the theft attempt.

Lincoln Mader, 160 Pinckney St., told police that a Lafayette CB radio valued at $179.95 was taken from his car, which was parked in the hospital lot from 12:15 to 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The car was locked at the time of the theft, according to Mrs. Mader who had driven it to the hospital.

Thieves took two yellow chrome chairs from the laundry at the Lewis Ave. apartments.

Mrs. Jane Holycross, manager of the units for the J. Boyd Stout Co., said they were taken Monday or Tuesday.
